LINDA HOLLE

2014 was year of political moments. This year has both produced legislative and executive levels. These leaders in fact have prompted expectations. At least Nawa Cita has encouraged collective dream that human rights will be better served in this country...

Agenda number 4 of Nawa Cita states to strengthen state role in reforming into a free corruption, dignity and trusted of system and law enforcement where one of the program priorities is "fair settlement of past human rights violations ". While agenda number 9 of Nawa Cita states to strengthen diversity and social restoration of Indonesia by highlighting the policy of education for diversity and creating spaces of dialogue among citizens. Komnas HAM certainly hope that Nawacita will be able to make human rights as the foundation of national life that may lead Indonesia in realizing the ideals of freedom that is to form a government of the state of Indonesia which shall protect all the people of Indonesia and their entire native land, and in order to improve the public welfare, to advance the intellectual life of the people and to contribute to the establishment of a world order based on freedom, abiding peace and social justice. However, the expectations are not in empty space. Therefore, expectations sometimes often collide with reality. Reality and polemics are human creations. Only the reality created by conscience and a clear mind able to nourish hope. If not, maybe we will not go too far away from the darkness that still surrounds our reality today. Regardless the reality, the hope is still lives .... because of hope Komnas HAM continue to work hard to this day. Although, case handling yet optimal due to limitations of authority, less political support for Komnas HAM so that the files of gross violations of human rights cases stagnated in the Attorney General Office, and monitoring of the elimination of racial and ethnic discrimination hampered by budgetary constraints. May this hope easily to be achieved. MENGUTAMAKAN YANG LEMAN

Foreword

The Indonesian National Commission on Human Rights (Komisi Nasional Hak Asasi Manusia/Komnas HAM) has been established since 1993 based on Presidential Decree No. 50 of 1993 where it strengthened through the enactment of Law No. 39 of 1999 on Human Rights. According to Law No. 39 of 1999 Article 75 Komnas HAM aims to develop a conducive condition for the fulfillment of human rights that are in line with Pancasila, 1945 Constitutions, UN Charter and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, then also to improve protection and enforcement of human rights for the Indonesian people's development of personality and ability to participate in all aspects of life.

The Commission seeks to optimally carry out its mandate given by the law in order to encourage the recovery of victims of human rights violations in Indonesia. It also faced a number of challenges both from internal and external institution. Nevertheless, Komnas HAM faces those challenges with optimism.

Along with the development of democracy in Indonesia, Komnas HAM received additional mandates from Law No. 26 of 2000 on Human Rights Court, Law No. 40 of 2008 on the Elimination of Racial and Ethnic Discrimination and Law No. 7 of 2012 on Social Conflict Management.

With these additional mandates, Komnas HAM needs to increase its institutional capacity and capability in providing services to the public, especially victims of human rights violation that often positioned Komnas HAM as the last resort for human rights violations settlement in Indonesia. This was proven by the large number of complaints of alleged human rights violations submitted to Komnas HAM.

Komnas HAM holds important role in both national, regional and international contexts. Komnas HAM has duty to monitor implementation on international treaties on human rights ratified by the Government of the Republic of Indonesia. The Commission often requested to provide its views on human rights issues of concerns to the international community. As a result, Komnas HAM plays significant role both in regional and international forum such United Nations (UN), International Coordinating Committee of National Institutions for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights (ICC), Asia Pacific Forum for NHRIs (APF) and South East Asia National Human Rights Institution Forum (SEANF).

Regardless of its external role, Komnas HAM continues to seek internal improvements in order to improve its services to the complainants, victims, their families, and co-victims of human rights violations who have high expectation to Komnas HAM. The Commission has committed to improve good governance by applying the principles of transparency, accountability, and disclosure through implementation of bureaucracy reforms.

Komnas HAM Annual Report 2014, formulated as part of public accountability as stipulated in article 97 of Law No. 39 of 1999. Komnas HAM Annual Report 2014, not only delivers report on the implementation of duties, functions and authorities of Komnas HAM based on various laws but also an overview of challenges to human rights situation in Indonesia, the actors involved, as well as tendency of human rights violations. ### The Indonesian National Commission on Human Rights

HAM gave attention to the legislative and presidential election issue, mainly related to the fulfillment of the constitutional rights of citizens in efforts towards a democratic election process in accordance with the principle of "free and fair election".

Hopefully, Komnas HAM's annual report 2014 may be a reference for the protection, promotion, enforcement and fulfillment of human rights in Indonesia, so there will be no repetition of human rights violations in the motherland.

Chairperson's Remarks

Year 2014 was special. This year the political situation in the country was in a state of vibrant due to the largest democracy event to elect representatives of the people, the President and Vice-President for a period of 5 years .Unfortunately, this big momentum was still tainted by human rights violations that occurred in general elections. In order to create conducive condition for human rights implementation on the legislative and president as well as vice president election, Komnas HAM has actively oversee the process by collecting data, information and fact related to the election process and stages, in order to minimize human rights violations.

The phenomenon of human rights violations in the election are nothing compared to the constellation of human rights violations that have occurred since Komnas HAM was established in 1993. Komnas HAM has made a lot of efforts for human rights protection, enforcement, fulfillment, and promotion. Komnas HAM noted a number of human rights issues that still becoming a polemic until today namely, abuse of powers by security forces to the public, disclosure of Munir cases, freedom of religion and belief, migrant workers cases, Sidoarjo mud flow, agrarian conflict and so on.

As of the end of 2014, Komnas HAM noted that the settlement of various gross violations of human rights have not reached significant progress. A total of 9 documents on the Commission's inquiry regarding gross violations of human rights cases (repeatedly) returned by the Attorney General. Polemic of procedural and political trade off seems never stop. This condition is deplorable because, the cases can immediately brought before the human rights Ad Hoc court if this matter be resolved.

A ray of hope came to the surface. In 2014, through the Vision-Mission and Program of Action Jokowi-JK, set 9 priority agenda (NAWACITA), where one of the priority program is "a fair settlement of human rights violations cases in the past". As one of NAWACITA elaboration, various programs of human rights set forth in the National Medium Term Development Plan (RPJMN). This was a spark of hope for human rights redress that had been anticipated by the victims who wish to taste the justice. However, this commitment will not have any meaning without any action.

In the framework of continuous change, Komnas HAM has urged the Government (in particular law enforcement agencies) to leave the repressive approach and promote dialog in dealing with the public. Komnas HAM has also requested the Government and the House of Representatives to ratify various legal frameworks related to the promotion and enforcement of human rights.

Regardless of these efforts, Komnas HAM has been mandated to carry out the mandate of Law No. 39 of 1999 on Human Rights and Law No. 26 of 2000 on Human Rights Court. Komnas HAM received additional supervisory role for the implementation of Law No. 40 of 2008 on the Elimination of Racial and Ethnic Discrimination and the Law No. 7 of 2012 on Social Conflict Management.

Komnas HAM has conducted series activities related to the implementation of Law No.39 of 1999 on Human Rights in particular research and study functions among others:

Annual Report 2014 vii

formulation of human rights indexes (right to food, housing, education, health and work), study on MP3EI in a human rights perspective, study on Bill of Defense and Security Sector Reform (RSPK) and Natural Resources (SDA), agrarian conflicts mapping in forestry sector and the National Inquiry.

Komnas HAM has conducted series of activities related to the implementation of human rights awareness, namely hosted 17 visits with a total of 749 people, launched movies "Marah di Bumi Lambu", "Senyap" and an advertisement of land rights in Jakarta, conducted Human Rights Trainings for the State Apparatus, Training of Trainers, human rights outreach, and Global Appeal on "Elimination of Stigma and Discrimination against people affected by leprosy and Their Families". In order to disseminate information on human rights, the Commission has published Komnas HAM's profile, SUAR Magazine (2 edition), tabloid WACANA (2 edition) and Human Rights Journal (2 edition).

In carrying out the monitoring and investigation function, during year of 2014 Komnas HAM received a total of 7285 complaints of which 3750 files have been partially addressed through written recommendation. In General, there is a trend of complaint related to the fulfillment of economic, social and cultural. Nevertheless, complaints related to civil and political rights in particular the right to justice, is still relatively high.

In order to ensure the fulfillment of the constitutional rights of citizens in the 2014 election, Komnas HAM conducted monitoring in 23 provinces for legislative elections and 12 provinces for presidential election.

Furthermore, within the framework of the mediation function, Komnas HAM received a total of 722 dispute files of which 321 disputes were new disputes, 208 on going disputes until early 2014, 399 on going disputes until December 2014, and 130 disputes settled during the year. The Commission has published 7 recommendations and issued 49 letters related to dispute handling.

Based on aforementioned matters, Komnas HAM realize that human rights protection, promotion, enforcement and fulfillment is an ongoing process. Komnas HAM commitment to carry out the constitutional mandate continued to be tested from time to time. We hope to maintain the consistency of our work, because the Commission has become final pedestal of public. We are well aware that the victims of human rights violations pinned their hopes on Komnas HAM.

Finally, I hope that Komnas HAM Annual Report 2014 may be a guide for public to scrutinize and criticize the performance of Komnas HAM.

Under Imdadun coordination the team has summoned some public officials and local leaders in relation to violation of freedom of religious and belief rights.

Imdadun reputed that widespread of violence and lack settlement of violations of religious and belief were due to lack of law enforcement. The law enforces often provide maximum penalty against minorities, but at the same time provide minimum punishment to the perpetrators. This condition worsened by a number of government policies that do not favor the minority groups among others, Act 1 / PNPS / 1965 on the Prevention of Abuse and / or Blasphemy; Law No.23 / 2006 concerning Population Administration; Joint Decree of the Minister of Religious Affairs, Attorney General and Minister of Home Affairs No.3 / 2008, KEP-033 / A / JA / 6 / 2008-199 on Warning and Command to the Believers, Members and / or Board Member of the Ahmadiyah Indonesia (JAI) and Community Member; and a number of discriminatory regulations on prohibition of activities of Jemaah Ahmadiyah Indonesia. According to Imdadun, the existence of this regulation violates human rights, because the State has limited (prohibited) its citizens to believe in a religion and conduct the worship.

General Overview of Human Rights in Indonesia

Without a logic complex, with just a simple thought, it can be concluded that human rights issues in Indonesia still leave a lot of records. These records may be addressed to the rights holders in this case the citizens and the state as duty bearer.

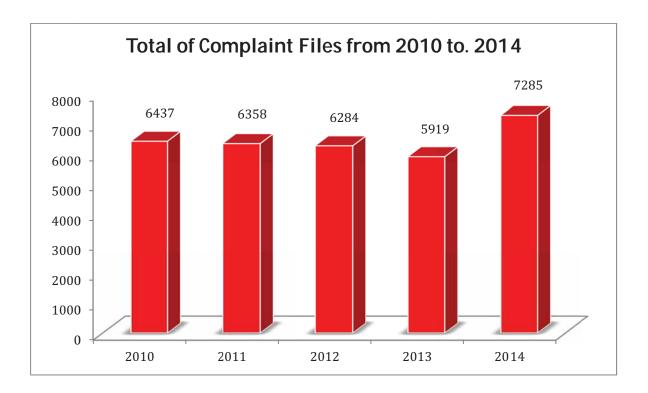

The rights holders are part of human rights issues in Indonesia. Based on Komnas HAM complaint data for 2014, allegations of human rights violation experienced by individuals made up the majority of reporting to Komnas HAM. As the Commission data in 2014, the number of complaints reached 4.342 (this number consist of 3,647 individual complaints and 695 vulnerable individual complaints).

No	Victim classification	Files	Percentage
1	Individual	3.647	51%
2	Vulnerable Individual	695	9%
3	Public	1.951	27%
4	Vulnerable Group	802	11%
5	Organization	23	1%
6	Foreign national	12	1%
	Total	7.130	100%

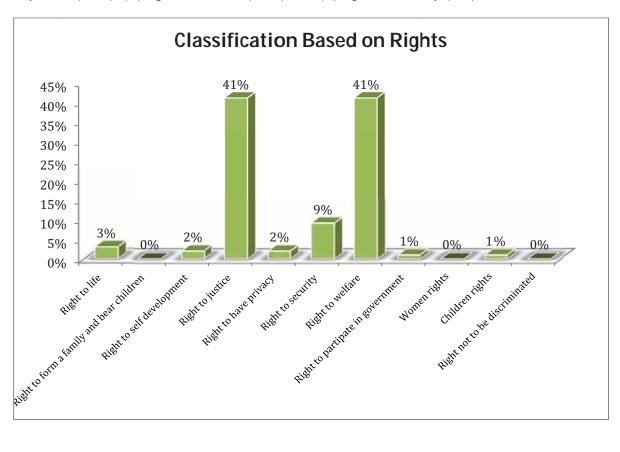

The individual, as the basic structure of society, was still dominant with human rights issues. There were some assumptions that led to individuals who feel their rights have been violated, namely increasing human rights awareness in society, easier access to lodge complaint to the Commission, or increasing number of human rights violation cases involving the individuals.

The number of human rights violations in Indonesia during 2014, based on Komnas HAM data has increased significantly as follows:

Based on the Commission data, the highest complaints lodged to Komnas HAM: (i) right to justice (41%), (iii) right to welfare (41%) and (iii) right to security (9%).

In general, the right to justice associated with the performance of law enforcers such as the police, prosecutor and judiciary which reported work not in accordance with the procedures or expectations of the complainants. Criminalization, judicial mafia to misguided trial still be bitter pills for law enforcement in Indonesia.

While right to welfare revolves around the issue of land conflicts, labor and employment disputes, evictions houses and traders, right to health, as well as migrant workers.

Expectation to the state in relation to human rights violations phenomenon in Indonesia cannot be ignored, as stipulated in Law No.39 of 1999 on Human Rights, especially Article 71 states that the obligation and responsibility to respect, protect, uphold and promote human rights is becoming the domain of states in this regard the Government of Republic of Indonesia as the duty bearer.

It's an irony, especially when we take a look at Komnas HAM complaints data during the past three years, some elements of the State identified as the alleged of violations human rights violations:

Parties Complained during the last 3 Years

No	Parties Complained	2012	2013	2014
1	National Police	1.938	1.845	2.483
2	Corporation	1.126	958	1.127
3	Local Government	569	542	771
4	Judiciary Institution	542	484	641
5	Central Government/Ministry	483	488	499

The police, corporation and local government have wider authority and/or more power after implementation of regional autonomy since 2001. Police hold large power and authority both for law enforcement and public order. The complaint of human rights violations related to allege abuse of authority by police officers from the top level to the bottom still continues and is likely to increase.

While the corporation as the second actor most complained due to its networking and big capital that allegedly could set public policy and development design. The commission found this modus in some cases, because of administration of permits more in favor of investment interests rather than protecting the right of communities.

Then the local government took the third position of the most complained because of it excessive power and authority. The authority was often not used to prosper its people, but giving out investment license and enriching themselves as well as their groups. This was in contrary to spirit of regional autonomy that aims to bring the leaders closer to its people, but what happened is the opposite, the Regent or Mayor became small kings in the region.

Annual Report 2014 19

In a nutshell, despite various legislations provide guarantee of promotion, protection, upholding and fulfillment of human rights, in reality various forms of human rights violations still occurred. Human rights violations not only in the field of civil and political rights but also economic, social and cultural rights. It is undeniable that various forms of human rights violations resulting in property damage as well as human fatalities both wounded and died.

We all hope that since 2015, the new national leaders could make significant efforts to restore the life of the nation. Jokowi-JK leadership is expected to do so with the nine priorities agenda called Nawa Cita. Komnas HAM sincerely hope that Nawa Cita will be able to render human rights as the foundation of national life that can lead Indonesia in realizing the ideals of independence.

Nawa Cita, agenda number 4 and 9, stated " to strengthen the presence of the state in reforming the system and law enforcement corruption-free, dignified, reliable where one of priority program is just settlement of past human rights violations" (program 4); "to strengthen diversity and social restoration of Indonesia by highlighting the policy of education for diversity and creating spaces of dialogue among citizens" (program 9).

The Role of Komnas HAM

Komnas HAM as a state institution that has functions and duties in human rights field, during 2014 has made various efforts to protect, uphold, fulfill and promote human rights and put pressure on the Government to pay serious attention to:

- (1) Settlement of past human rights issues;
- (2) Promotion and protection of the rights of minorities, marginalized and vulnerable groups
- (3) A comprehensive settlement of agrarian conflicts, including forest areas and rights of indigenous peoples;
- (4) Implementation of institutional reform of the police, corporation, and local government as the most complained party to the Commission;

personal development of Indonesian people as a whole and their ability to participate in several aspects of life.

In order to achieve these aims, Komnas HAM as an independent institution equal level with other state agencies has functions to study, research, disseminate, monitor and mediate human rights issues. The citizens are expected to further increase awareness and able to speak and claim what they are entitled. In the future, this function may be optimized and synergized with monitoring and mediation functions, thus increasing the effectiveness of Komnas HAM performance.

This may occurred because the three actors have great authority and / or power post of regional autonomy in 2001.

During 2014, Monitoring and Investigation Sub Commission has carried out 171 monitoring/investigation, which consist of regular monitoring, monitoring of political rights of citizens in General Election of Legeslative and President/Vice President and monitoring by the representative office.

Komnas HAM mediation function serves to encourage negotiation and peace in cases with human rights dimension. The success of mediation depends on cooperation of the parties and their willingness to sit down at the negotiating table. This function is not yet widely known compared with monitoring and investigation function. Therefore, in the future, mediation function should be optimized and socialized to the community and government.

Following are the important records related to mediation functions in 2014:

- 1. Increasing number of land cases
- 2. Increasing number of dispute between group of community and the State
- 3. Polemic on traditional market revitalization

There was no progress regarding settlement of gross violations of human rights in the Attorney General Office, whether the incidents occurred prior or after the enactment of Law No. 26 of 2000 on Human Rights Court. Until end of June 2014, the Attorney General has not acted upon at least seven inquiries completed by Komnas HAM, namely:

- 1. The events of 1965 to 1966
- 2. The events of Mysterious shootings 1982 s.d.1985
- 3. The events in Talangsari Lampung 1989
- 4. The events of Enforced Disappearance 1997 to 1998

- 5. The May 1998 Riot
- 6. The events of Trisakti, Semanggi I dan Semanggi II
- 7. The events of Wasior and Wamena 2003

The Commission appreciated serious efforts put by the House of Representatives regarding the enforced disappearance incidents by sending a recommendation to the President for establishment of the ad hoc Human Rights Court on enforced disappearance. However, until the end of 2014, there has been no progress regarding establishment of the ad hoc Human Rights Courts through Presidential Decree.

Currently, Komnas HAM is conducting inquiry on five cases of gross violation of human rights in Aceh, namely :

- 1. Simpang KKA Incident, North Aceh, 1999;
- Jambu Keupok Incident, South Aceh 2003;
- 3. Rumah Geudong Incident, Pidie 1989 to 1998 period;
- 4. Bumi Flora Incident, East Aceh 1998, and
- 5. Timang Gajah Incident, Bener Meriah 1998 to 2003.

The military operations in Papua cause various forms of human rights violations. Komnas HAM will carry out an investigation to determine whether human rights violations that occurred in Papua meet the criteria of gross human rights violations or not.

If all cases of human rights violations left protracted without settlement, then it will open up the opportunity of international mechanism as stipulated in the basic principles of the UN Charter, the Security Council and the Rome Statute.

Human Rights Actual (Contemporary) Issues in 2014

In addition to polemic on the implementation of Komnas HAM functions and slow settlement of gross violations of human rights cases, the Commission also had to respond to a number of actual human rights issues that drew public attention, among others:

- 1. Disclosure of Munir murder case;
- 2. Violence cases in Papua;
- Poso Case;
- Migrant workers problems;
- 5. Polemic on death penalty;
- 6. Increasing number of public complaints related to human rights cases;
- 7. Guarantees of freedom of religious and belief;
- 8. Agrarian Conflict;
- 9. Forced Eviction;
- 10. Protection of labor rights;
- 11. Forest fires;
- 12. Lapindo Case;
- 13. Education management issues; and

- 1. ASEAN single community;
- 2. Rohingya cases;

4. The political transition in Islamic Countries in Middle East and North Africa.

Conclusion:

Based on the a fore mentioned above, the strategic developments related to human rights promotion, protection, enforcement and fulfillment in Indonesia during the year 2014, can be concluded as follows:

- 1. A number of records that need attention related to promotion, protection, enforcement and fulfillment of human rights;
  - Abuse of power by security forces still took place which includes use of torture in detentions;
  - Disclosure of Munir murder case;
  - Fulfillment freedom of religion and belief;
  - Protection of migrant workers who receive inhumane treatment and dealing with legal issues;
  - Agrarian conflicts that cause casualties; and
  - The handling of mudflow victims (Lapindo) in Sidoarjo.
- 2. There was no any significant progress on human rights condition during 2014 due to lack of serious efforts from the government in fulfilling citizens human rights both in the economic, social and cultural as well as in civil and political fields.
- The complexity of human rights issues in economic, social and cultural field was mainly due to agrarian conflicts, labor cases, evictions, as well as high number of unemployment.
- 4. Human rights issues in civil and political field due to high number of violence by security forces and lack of political will from the Government for gross violations of human rights cases settlement and Munir murder case disclosure.
- 5. A positive record to human rights promotion by including various program of human rights as one of Nawa Cita elaboration as outlined in the National Medium Term Development Plan (RPJMN). #### Komnas HAM National Inquiry on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples over Their Territories in Forest Areas

In 2014, Komnas HAM has conducted an activity called as the National Inquiry. National inquiry is a method to investigate, analyze the root of the problem and formulate recommendations of human rights violations. The national inquiry has targeted on systemic, extensive, and complex cases. Through the inquiry, common human rights violations are not expected to recur in the future. This was the first time Komnas HAM using this method even though this method has been introduced since ten years ago.

The national inquiry is carried out under conditions where there have been improvements on legislation and institution but human rights violations still occurs. The human rights violations revealed in the national inquiry were structural, hidden and likely to recur.

The national inquiry team not only from Komnas HAM. The inquiry team involved various elements among others community organization, university and mass media both print and electronic. The inquiry team were supported by the National Commission on Violence Against Women (Komnas Perempuan), and several civil society organizations consists of Sajogyo Institute (SAINS), Indigenous Peoples Alliance of the Archipelago (AMAN), The Samdhana Institute, HuMa, Epistema Institute, Community Mapping Network (JKPP), Kemitraan, and the Institute for Policy Research and Advocacy (ELSAM). The inquiry team has received some supports from Intermatrix, national and regional print and electronic media, regional radio networks and several local televisions for campaign and education aspects.

The Themes of Inquiry

Komnas HAM decided to choose the topics of the rights of indigenous peoples over their territories in forest areas. This is a complicated issues and widely experienced by indigenous peoples all over Indonesia. Regulations and policies regarding land and indigenous peoples are so unclear. The Government effort to do some reparation has not been so evident despite some improvements of laws and regulations have been done. The Government c.q Ministry of Environment and Forestry (formerly the Ministry of Forestry) appointed approximately 70% of Indonesia territory as a forest area that is treated as a state forest. Designation and small part of its determination has been done since the days of the Dutch East Indies Government. Later, the Government set the conservation areas, protected forests and forest utilization licenses over production forests.

The Government still has slight recognition of indigenous peoples and their rights over their territories, including indigenous forests, especially in areas designated as forest area. Even the Government has unleashed "forest area" through issuance of use permit for mining interests and land allocated for other purposes (APL) that can be allocated for the development of plantations and other uses.

It should be noted that the number of land dispute cases, including customary land in forest areas, continues to increase from year to year. Komnas HAM recorded about 20 per cent of all complaints received, related to land issues as shown in the following data:

Data from civil society indicated the same trend. AMAN has noted that land and natural resources conflict cases were the highest compared to other cases. More than 140 cases involved indigenous peoples. Like an iceberg, the conflicts that allegedly occurred more than reported.

JKPP has conduct the mapping of indigenous territories has made overlay on map of indigenous territories to map of forest area in 2014. The overlay results showed that of 81% appointment forest area is in indigenous territories, while 19% of the rest are outside the forest area whose permits are not issued by the forestry agency.

The National Inquiry on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples over Their Territories in Forest Areas also as a response to the decision of Constitutional Court (MK) No. 35 / PUU-X / 2012 in the case of judicial review of Law No. 41 of 1999 on Forestry. The verdict was read on 16 May 2013 and granted part of the petitioner claim, according to Komnas HAM, it was an important legal breakthrough in the process of legal reform. The Constitutional Court's decision marking an important point where people struggle for the recognition of customary law and their rights, especially the rights of indigenous territories in line with the principle of respect for human rights.

The national inquiry also became part of the action plan in the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) of 12 Ministries and/or state agencies which signed on 11 March 2013 related to the acceleration of the inaugural Indonesian forests. Komnas HAM is one of signing parties. The inquiry is in line with the MoU agenda, namely, first, harmonization of policies and legislation; second, technical and procedural coordination; and third, conflict resolution based on fairness, and human rights respects and promotion in accordance with legislation.

At the political level, the national inquiry in line with the nine priority agenda (Nawa Cita) of President Joko Widodo and his Working Cabinet. President Joko Widodo has stated its commitment to protect the institutions of local customs and the rights of indigenous peoples. This commitment has indeed given new hope for the remedial process (improvement) to disregard the existence of indigenous peoples and violation of indigenous peoples' rights.

The National Inquiry Stages

The national inquiry has several stages namely literature studies, field research, and public hearing both closed and open to the public. Besides leading to an attempt to resolve the problem, the inquiry considered will have implications on the improvement of education on society.

Public hearing is one of important method of the national inquiry and a forum to hear testimony from victims, the government, the company and related parties. This mechanism is believed to encourage the dissemination of information and knowledge as well as awareness of the importance of conflict resolution, respect, fulfillment, protection of indigenous peoples' rights.

Public hearing will be a process of education or clarification of the causes and consequences of human rights violations that occur because it raising major cases, the causes, impacts and context of the events that occurred, as well as looking at it with a new perspective. Public involvement in public hearing would encourage participation and public interest in the disclosure of human rights violation cases and the root of its problem.

Public hearing also aims to generate public support and momentum to ensure that local and national authorities take serious effort.

The inquiry team selected only 40 cases of many cases received to be heard in Public Hearing mechanism. Below are the criteria to determine which cases to be heard in Public Hearing:

- 1. Human rights violations occurred massively and systematically;
- 2. Experienced by Indigenous Peoples in forests or former forest areas;
- 3. There is enough information;
- 4. There are victims/ witnesses who are willing to provide information about the case;
- 5. There is political support at the local level; and
- 6. The case is registered in Komnas HAM.

The findings and the Root of the Problem

The public hearing process has led to the discovery of the root of the problem related to the issue of the rights of indigenous peoples in the forest areas. The most fundamental issue related to this issue is the lack of proper recognition of the state for indigenous peoples. This condition has implications for the uncertainty of indigenous peoples as a legal subject. This resulted in uncertainty of indigenous territories as well as the boundaries of indigenous territories and forest areas.

Following are the conclusion of Public Hearing to 40 Indigenous Peoples Cases in 7 Regions:

- The issue of legal uncertainty of indigenous peoples existence, indigenous territories and its traditional rights as the root of the conflicts as well as abandonment of indigenous peoples' rights in forest areas. The state does not recognize indigenous territories which resulted in expropriation of indigenous peoples territories;
- 2. The granting of concessions and permits by the State to the company and the investors of extractive and exploitative businesses over land and forests in indigenous peoples territories are the causes of conflicts that resulted indigenous peoples as the victims:
- 3. There has been a simplification of the problem of indigenous peoples existence and their rights over indigenous territories and forest resources by the Government because it is regarded as an administrative issue not as an obligation to respect, protect and fulfill human rights which constitute as constitutional rights of the citizens;
- 4. The dispute between legality and legitimacy of the existence of indigenous peoples' rights. Indigenous peoples are positioned to deal with the Government and the forestry business holders who obtain business licenses from the Government, as well as mining and plantation business who obtain a permit to borrow, utilize and exchange forest areas from the Government. This condition has positioned indigenous peoples as party whose rights has been marginalized and their existence has been ignored in making important decisions on the future of their indigenous territories because there has been no formal legal basis for indigenous peoples;
- 5. The Government and/or the security forces who are supposed to be protectors of indigenous peoples and the nation, in practice in favor to protect the interests of the company / concessionaire;
- 6. The absence of major guidelines for the Police in dealing with natural resource conflicts have resulted in the absence of special treatment for women and children in legal proceedings and so far the handling cases of indigenous peoples were based on formal (written) only. Yet almost no indigenous peoples have proof of ownership or recognition of its existence from the Government;
- 7. The Government and security forces should anticipate the possibility of horizontal conflict among members of indigenous peoples or between indigenous peoples themselves, between indigenous peoples and other residents as a result of a different attitude towards the company's presence in their areas or the government policy on land / forest of indigenous peoples. Instead, omission or absence has happened and no specific efforts to resolve the issue;
- 8. The absence of ministerial-level agencies for the completion of agrarian conflicts (including forestry) so that land and agrarian conflicts in indigenous peoples territories never been resolved completely and thoroughly; and

9. The women, in particular, have double burden. Indigenous peoples especially women experiences layered discrimination. Forced displacement (forced transfer) has resulted in dispossession cultural roots and social relations of indigenous peoples from the sources of their livelihood that have an impact on the loss of knowledge of indigenous women (in mixing food and local medicines, weaving, spinning) because they cannot obtain raw materials from the forest. As a result of indigenous women cannot make ends meet as a provider of food and natural medicines.

2. Indication of Pattern of Human Rights Violations related to Indigenous Peoples' rights Over Their Territories in Forest Area and Hope of Victims Reparation

Noer Fauzi Rahman, Indonesian Agrarian Expert, in relation with land grabbing and expropriation of customary land, criticized the security forces actions who constantly accuse indigenous peoples as thieves on their own land (Rahman & Siscawati, 2014). According to Rahman, indigenous peoples living in forest areas actually entitled to their territories and customary lands. Indigenous peoples should not live in threats and feel insecure from apparatus (the security forces/law enforcer) as they manage their land as happened in many cases of indigenous peoples in forest areas.

According to Professor Maria Ruswiastuti, the conditions experienced by indigenous peoples caused by 'fallacy' (Ruwiastuti, 2000) which was imprinted in law enforcement officials and policy makers framework. In their minds, indigenous peoples are not legal subject which have authority over land ownership. According to Ruwiastuti, misguided way of thinking which is then implemented through regulations and policies are then resulted in the emergence of various events and incidents of land grabbing and expropriation of customary land accompanied by acts of violence and criminalization of indigenous peoples.

From the law perspective, various events that ended up with criminalization of indigenous peoples in forests are considered by law enforcement officials in accordance with applicable law. However, Professor Haridadi Kartodiharjo, forest management and policy experts, has another opinion which underlines that "the legal aspects of forest management as the animating principle should be able to prioritize aspects of fairness to all parties, including indigenous peoples." According to Kartodiharjo, indigenous peoples should not undergo criminalization considering that they are the real owners of the land, even though the rule of law which is the implementing regulations has not been set out clear recognition of indigenous territories and boundaries.

Documenting cases of indigenous peoples in Indonesia is a challenge. Until now, there has been no accurate data regarding the total number indigenous peoples victims related to agrarian conflicts. Nevertheless, Komnas HAM has data on the number of cases which believed to be agrarian cases and involve groups of indigenous peoples as victims. It should be noted that the agrarian conflict has occupied the top of most cases reported to the Commission for four years in a row.

Typology of agrarian cases related to human rights violations, according to Komnas HAM data, consist of land grabbing without compensation, encroachment and land grabbing, land execution, land ownership and management, violence in land dispute and communal land grabbing. Below are the typologies of human rights violations with the highest intensity:

The argument aforementioned has encourage a research on indication of the pattern of human rights violations related to the rights of indigenous peoples over their territories in forest areas and hope for victims reparation.

This research was in synergy with National Inquiry activities which held in 8 regions where public hearing on the rights of indigenous peoples over their territories in the forest area of Indonesia, namely Palu, Medan, Pontianak, Rangkasbitung, Ambon, Mataram, Jayapura and Jakarta.

3. Research on Strengthening Human Rights Commitment in the Police Institution

For the last few year the Police have become the most complained party with typology of violation of legal discrimination in inquiry and investigation process so there were some indications that the right to justice of the accused have been violated. There are various forms of abuse among others the absence of warrant and legal aid assistance. This issue is not only related to violation of civil and political rights but has led to violation of economic, social and cultural rights as happened in the case of police involvement in plantation conflict with community.

This issue has long become the world's attention. In November 2007, Manfred Nowak, UN Special Rapporteur on Torture has highlighted a number of problems related to the condition of pre-trial detention, especially the density detention (detention cells were overcrowded, lacked of fresh air and natural light, as well as sanitation facilities were inadequate and extended detention at the police investigation phase up to 61 days). Related to this, Manfred Nowak stated "Some cells were overcrowded and some facilities lacked fresh air, natural light and adequate sanitary facilities. Detention for up to 61 days in these conditions amounts to degrading and inhuman treatment."

Starting from this issue, Komnas HAM conducted a research on Assurance on Strengthening Human Rights in the Police Institution. This research led to:

- 1. Implementation of assurance of human rights protection and respect in the police regulations and policies;
- 2. Internal and external control of the Police institutional;
- 3. Implementation of Human Rights Education in the Police Institution.

The activities that have been carried out for this research were:

- 1. Data collection was done in 3 regions with high crime rates, namely North Sumatra, East Java and West Java; and
- Interview with Regional Police, academic scholar who focused on police issues, Majda El Muhtaj from Human Rights Study Center (PUSHAM) Universitas Negeri Medan and Muradi from Universitas Padjajaran Bandung, West Java as well as resources from NGOs such as Legal Aid Institute and Kontras.
- 4. Research (continuation) on the Relevant Legislations related to Defense and Security Sector Reform (National Security, Criminal Code Bill (RUU KUHP), Criminal Procedural Code Bill (RUU KUHAP)

A series of Bills on law enforcement and Defense and Security Reform Sector (RSPK) provide significant implications for the protection, respect and fulfillment of human rights both in civil rights (the right to life, the right to security, the right to privacy, the right to freedom of religion, the right to be free from torture) or political rights (the right to express ideas and expression, the right to have political beliefs, the right of association and assembly, the right of participation in government, and the right to public services).

This research consisted of two themes, namely law enforcement and RSPK. For law enforcement, research has focused on Criminal Code Bill and Criminal Procedural Code Bill. While for RSPK, research has focused on National Security Bill.

This research based on Komnas HAM views on Criminal Code Bill, Criminal Procedural Code Bill and National Security Bill. This research was developed by compiling List of Inventory Problems (DIM) on the third bills to propose articles that considered in accordance with human rights principles.

This research used qualitative approached through conducting series of Focus Group Discussion (FGD) and in depth interview involving experts, civil societies and the right holders. The research team analyzed the data, information and opinions, then formulated into a research report to be recommended to various parties in order to improve those bills.

5. Research on Human Rights Indicator (HRI) for Human Rights Indexes (continuation from human rights indicator)

The Government is the responsible party for overseeing the realization of respect, protection and fulfillment of human rights. Ironically, the Government was often absent in carrying out its responsibilities. The Government often use limited infrastructure and resources as an excuse when facing a lawsuit regarding implementation of citizens' rights. Human Rights Index is a tool that can be optimized to facilitate supervision of the embodiment of human rights of the citizens.

It should be noted that various socio-economic indices are inadequate for measuring the human rights performance because it is generally not derived from human rights principles and standards so that can not be used as human rights index. From the Gross Domestic Product (GDP), the human development index, Gini index, unemployment, malnutrition, or the national socioeconomic survey (Susenas). The economic indicators are not enough to measure the state level of compliance in implementing the Covenant of Economic, Social and Cultulra Rights, as a statement of a senior researcher from Norwegian Institute of Human Rights (Asbjorn Eide, 2001).

Furthermore, the indicators provided by the Government have two fundamental flaws. First, the indicators only contain statistical data of a general nature so it do not describe the realities. Second, the indicators ability to measure state's obligation to respect, fulfill and protect human rights are still questionable. Those indicators are only able to measure slight degree of compliance of the state in terms of satisfying the basic rights of its citizens.

Therefore, Indonesia should have a Human Rights Index. The human rights index is supposed to be able to illustrate the reality of social, politic and economic in more comprehensive manner so that human rights implementation will be easily monitored.

4.2 Annual Report 2014

6. Recognition, Respect, Protection and Fulfillment of Indigenous People's Rights over Their Territories under Law No. 41 of 1999 on Forestry, Law No. 5 of 1960 on the Basic Regulation of Agrarian Law, Law No. 18 of 2013 on The Prevention and Eradication of Forest Destruction, and Law No. 32 of 2009 on Environmental Protection and Management

The People Consultative's Assembly (MPR) Decree No. IX / MPR / 2001 on Agrarian Reform and Natural Resources Management have led the nation to have the opportunity to improve the conflict conditions due to claim indigenous territories in the forest area. Article 4 letter j of MPR Decree confirms that the agrarian reform and natural resource management must be implemented in accordance with the principle of recognizing, respecting and protecting the rights of the indigenous peoples and cultural diversity of the nation over agrarian / natural resources.

Decision of the Constitutional Court (MK) 45 / PUU - IX / 2011 and No. 35 / PUU - X / 2012 further strenghened as having stated that the legality of forest areas is fulfilled when the entire process forest area inauguration has been completed. In other words, the area designated as forest area is not valid if the whole process of inauguration has not been completed. There is still a chance for the indigenous peoples to do advocacy in defending their territories from forest area inauguration. While the MK Decree No. 35 which states that customary forest as private forest, not the state forest, providing a wider opportunity for recognition of indigenous peoples' rights over their territories that have been claimed as forest areas. MK Decision has corrected Law No. 41 of 1999 on Forestry is a statement of there is a substantial error in the Law.

The conflicts among claims of indigenous territories with forest areas are still taking place. This indicates that the legislation on forestry has not been able to be a solution due to lack of proper recognition, respect, protection and fulfillment of the rights of indigenous peoples over their territories. This is the basis of Komnas HAM to conduct a study on the protection of indigenous peoples' rights over territories in forestry legislations. The data collection covered several areas such as Yogyakarta, Medan and Padang.

7. Research and Development on Komnas HAM Research and Data Centre

Komnas HAM indeed has a lot of data and information on human rights issues. Komnas HAM's work has become a reference in decision making process. With its authority the Commission has access to various sources of information data (gate information center of human rights).

However, this potency will be useless if the data and information are not used optimally and affect the quality of Komnas HAM policies. This may resulted in ineffective case handling and policy. The division of labor, responsibilities and information flow and relation between supporting elements (organization) have become obstacles in managing information system and data. Therefore, it is necessary to reform the management system and data used as the basis in determining the right policy objectives.

The main objectives of the improvement of Komnas HAM information system and data management is the realization of management of information systems and data which accountable and efficient (accurate, measurable and reliable). In particular, these efforts aim to:

- 1. Mapping data and information from the implementation of Komnas HAM functions;
- 2. Recognized the needs and workflow of data and information management from each functional unit;
- 3. Recognized public information needs from stakeholders perspectives; and
- 4. Completion of the plan to improve data and information management (including devices, tools, personnel and policies).

Output from improving Komnas HAM information systems and data management are as follow:

- 1. A Document regarding data and information management needs derived from the implementation of Komnas HAM functions;
- 2. A Document regarding improvement plan for Komnas HAM information and data and management; and
- 3. Compilation of FGD and interview results with staffs and stakeholders.

Limitations of time, energy, and infrastructure made the executor focused on collecting and storing data and information that were not integrated and scattered around both at central and representative offices in the regions with retroactive method (collection starts from the data and the latest information then earlier data and information)

Based on Komnas HAM work practices and transactions following several databases that are required by the data center, among others:

- 1. The database of national and international instruments related to human rights,
- 2. The database related regional human rights instruments;
- 3. The database on of literature studies, field studies, comparative studies related to human rights:
- 4. The database on human rights monitoring and investigation;
- 5. The database of human rights mediation;
- 6. The database of human rights campaign;
- 7. The database of study and research;
- 8. The database of planning and organizational development;
- 9. Archival data bases;

Bases of data that have been collected and then recorded and stored in a storage area (folder) to be processed and presented. These data are collected, stored and inventoried based on forms and types of documents as well as the title and the fiscal year. Then inventory results are recorded in a form (attached) to facilitate documents searching when needed (recalling).

It should be noted that the improvement of the management of information systems and data at Komnas HAM Representative Offices began with a meeting between a team from Study and Research Sub commission with Head and staffs from the representative office. Then the team started to map initial conditions of the management of information systems and data at Komnas HAM Representative Office in region.

4.4 Annual Report 2014

A discussion of collecting database in Komnas HAM Representative Office in West Kalimantan and West Sumatra.

The meeting discussed the collection of database activity at the Commission Representative Office in West Kalimantan and Human Rights Commission Representative Office of West Sumatra

It should be noted that improvement of the management of information systems and data at Komnas HAM Representative Offices began with a meeting between a team from Study and Research Sub commission with Head and staffs from the representative office. Then the team started to map initial conditions of the management of information systems and data at Komnas HAM Representative Office in region.

8. Position Paper on National Legislation Program 2014

The Law has an ideal position to define human rights guarantees for citizens, a way to measure human rights levels in a law through unravel and examine the law formation process.

Observing the legislative process that took place in 2010-2014, it is known that the National Legislation Program (Prolegnas) can be said is never reached. It can be seen from the calculation of the amount of the plan compared with the results list, which was different

Legislation productivity only targeting the open cumulative list, in particular concerning establishment of provincial and district/city, ratification of treaty, as well as state budget (APBN). This issue was more complicated because low productivity was not guarantee the improvement of product quality of national legislation and increase supporting capacity to the needs of the community.

Komnas HAM responded this phenomenon and in order to get input in accordance with public legal needs, the Commission conducted several discussions and invited some experts as follows:

- 1. Insist (Universitas Gajah Mada and Pusham UII), FGD in Yogyakarta on 23 October 2014:
- Yoan NS, Dian Noeswantari and Heru Susanto (Pusham Universitas Surabaya);
   E. Prajwalita Widiati (Pusham Universitas Airlangga); Sahura and Mohammad Rizqi (LBH Surabaya), FGD in Universitas Surabaya, on 30 October 2014;
- 3. Abdullah Gopar, Ridwan and Indah Febriyani (Law Faculty, Universitas Sriwijaya) and Taslim (LBH Palembang) FGD in Palembang on 5 November 2014;
- 4. Syarifudin Aspa and Jufri (Universitas Negeri Makassar), Abdul Aziz and Zulkifli (LBH Makassar) and Wiwin Suwandi (Pusham Universitas Hasanuddin ) FGD in Makassar on 12 November 2014.

These activities have resulted in a number of strategic inputs to law formation process, both its system and its prevailing models. These inputs will be reported and published in order to provide guidance for the public.

9. Human Rights Limitation

Human Rights has gained such a good position in the Indonesian legal system. The second amendment of the 1945 Constitution specifically includes a chapter on human rights, Chapter XA. Compared with other countries, the inclusion of human rights into the constitution of Indonesia is quite an achievement. At a certain point, it can be seen that Indonesia has a commitment to respect, fulfil and protect human rights.

Chapter XA of Article 28A to 28I includes dozens of basic rights that requires the responsibility of the state in fulfilment. Article 28 even states that some rights cannot be reduced under any circumstances (non-derogable rights). In another section, the constitution has a chapter on human rights limitation, namely Article 28J paragraph 2.

Article 28J of the 1945 Constitution remains debatable, especially if it is associated with the Constitutional Court (MK) decision in reviewing some laws and Article 28J. The growing discussion about it among other, whether Article 28J may limit or exempt human rights stated in Article 28A to 28I, including the rights that "cannot be reduced under any circumstances" (non-derogable rights)? to which extend human rights limitations should be done?

Until now, no one has done a special study to further formulate in detailed and valid on Article 28 J. In this context, the Commission considered important for authoritative interpretation of Article 28J of the 1945 Constitution regarding human rights limitation as a valid guide or reference the law enforcers, so that the state able to guarantee human rights respect, fulfilment and protection. This study covered:

10. Follow Up on Disability Bill, Law No. 39 of 1999 Bill and Framework Convention on Tobacco Control (FCTC).

A. Disability Bill

Law No. 4 of 1997 on Disabled People which based on charity is no longer relevant and needs to be replaced with a law that based in respect, protect and fulfil of human rights. In addition, the discriminatory treatment experienced by people with disabilities, making the issue of respect, protects and fulfilment of human rights for persons with disabilities such an urgent issue to address for the sake of human rights in Indonesia.

Disability Bill in lieu of Law No. 4 of 1997 on Disabled People has long been proposed and championed by various parties, especially by Working Group on Person with Disabilities Bill and organizations of persons with disabilities in Indonesia. In fact, this bill was included in the list of Prolegnas as priority in 2014, but the draft of bill was by the legislative body (Baleg) which considered did not have person with disabilities perspectives.

Until July 2014, each stakeholder has a draft of Disability Bill with a different version. According to Baleg, it received four version of draft of Disability Bill (Komnas HAM, Working Group on Person with Disabilities Bill, Ministry of Social Affairs and Disabled People Organization Yogyakarta). Therefore, a meeting with Baleg should be conducted in order to compare each draft of Disability Bill. Komnas HAM facilitated two meetings on August and September 2014 between Working Group on Person with Disabilities Bill, Disabled People Organization Yogyakarta and Baleg to unify draft of Disability Bill in into one version to accommodate all perspectives.

On 19 September 2014, draft of Disability Bill which originally consisted of several versions became one version and has officially become a draft bill initiated by the House of Representatives (DPR RI). In the 2010-2014, the House of Representatives through its chairman, Marzuki Ali has sent a letter to President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono (SBY) to hold a joint discussion between the House of Representatives and the Government in order to obtain mutual consent. However, before the President appointed a Ministry to coordinate a discussion of draft of Disability Bill, the leadership has changed as well as the member of House of Representatives to 2014 -2019 period.

Jokowi during his campaign had signed Soeharso Charter containing his commitment to pay more attention to persons with disabilities in Indonesia. Based on this, the Working Group on Person with Disabilities Bill continued to conduct political lobbying to members of the House of Representatives and the new Government. Political lobbying has yielded significant results, the Commission VIII of the House of Representatives expressed its support for Disability Bill to be in list of priority the national legislation 2015. The Commission VIII also entered Disability Bill into two list of the proposed Bill to prolegnas priority 2015.

To this day, Prolegnas 2014-2019 has not been announced, in spite of the Working Group on Person with Disabilities Bill and Komnas HAM is optimistic, Disability Bill will be included in Prolegnas List 2015 and ratified in the same year.

B. Law No. 39 of 1999 Bill on Human Rights

Komnas HAM performance and authority is regarded could not keep up with public confidence in Komnas HAM. It was an evaluation of implementation of Komnas HAM's authority as a result of weakness in a number of aspects of Law No. 39 Year 1999. Therefore, Komnas HAM has drawn up a Bill on Komnas HAM to rectify weaknesses of Law No. 39 of 1999. These aspects regulated in this bill are about changes in membership, legal position, compliance with other relevant parties' authorities, implementation of recommendation, the immunity of members, and sub poena power.

The House of Representatives has followed by preparing a Human Rights Bill, which also reorganize the authority and position of Komnas HAM as required nowadays. Therefore, a review of the Human Rights Bill and Komnas HAM Bill needs to be done. The first discussion was held to discuss checklist problems in late September 2014.

The Indonesian National Commission on Human Rights

The second discussion was held on November 2014 involving the Commission Chairmanship, Representative from Sub Commission and some relevant staff members. The second discussion began to lead to discussion of human rights substance. This discussion focused on human rights substance especially in order to address human rights draft bill by the House, adding the corporation/company as human rights violators. The discussion agreed on decision to have to conduct depth review human rights substance and institutional improvement for Komnas HAM to carry out its duties and functions optimally. The follow-up activities of discussion were:

- 1. Determining Komnas HAM's attitude to review Human Rights Bill by the House or to draw up human rights bill by the Commission;
- 2. Disseminating Human Rights bill to the public in order to get feedback and inputs on its substance;
- 3. Encouraging the House of Representatives and the Government to discuss and agree on the enactment of Human Rights Bill.

C. Ratification on the Framework Convention on Tobacco Control (FCTC)

Since 2011, Komnas HAM has conducted a series of activities in order to provide support to any control measures against tobacco products that are addictive substances harmful to health. The starting point on this matter to the importance of the protection of right to health and right to a healthy environment for all Indonesian from adverse impact of tobacco products. This view in line with the spirit of the 1945 Constitution Article 28 H paragraph (1), Article 9 paragraph (3) of Law No. 39 of 1999 on Human Rights, Law No. 36 of 2014 on Health, Law No. 11 of 2005 on the Ratification of the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights as well as Article 12 paragraph (2) of Law No. 23 of 2002 on Child Protection.

The Ministry of Health data in 2012 stated that tobacco consumption in Indonesia has killed 235,000 smokers per year, while other people's smoke (second hand smoke) killed at least 25,000 people. These data indicated that consumption of tobacco products in Indonesia has not only endanger public health but also have taken away the right to life of citizens which is the most fundamental rights that should not be reduced under any circumstances (non-derogable right). Ironically, most of the victims of the tobacco consumption were the productive age group, even the children.

It is unfortunate, to date, Indonesia does not have a strong rule of law and protect comprehensively the present and future generation of exposure to tobacco products. In connection with this matter, the Commission still believes one of the roads to be taken by the government is acceding FCTC which the noble objectives of this instrument is "to protect present and future generations of poor health, social consequences, environmental conditions and the economy posed by tobacco consumption and exposure to tobacco smoke".

FCTC itself has been signed by 177 countries in the world which Indonesia is the only country in Asia Pacific that has not become a state party along with several other small countries such as Andorra, the Dominican Republic, Eritrea, Liechtenstein, Malawi, Monaco, Somalia, Tajikistan, Uzbekistan, and Zimbabwe.

In relation with this FCTC accession plan, some information were obtained that several ministries have expressed their objections of a number reasons which based on assumptions from the point of economic losses. In fact, in many countries that have ratified the FCTC such as China, India, Russia and others, such concerns are entirely unsubstantiated. In order to answer the doubts about the importance of the Indonesian Government to accede FCTC and to see adverse impacts if the Indonesian Government has not become a party to the FCTC to the resilience of nations and human rights, then Komnas HAM conducted a seminar on 9 September 2013 with a theme "The Importance of FCTC Accession for The Resilience of Nations and Human Rights Protection".

Some interested points of interest of the seminar as among others were:

- FCTC does not prohibit farmers to grow tobacco so that it will not harm tobacco farmers. Facts proved 7 biggest tobacco producing countries in the world have ratified FCTC. The production of tobacco leaves and cigarettes production are still high and growing;
- All this time, Indonesian tobacco imports have continued to increase even though the Government has not yet acceded the FCTC. This is clearly detrimental to tobacco farmers because tobacco import policy by the tobacco industry to cover shortfall tobacco production ignores farmers' hard work;
- 3. FCTC did not lower the cigarette sales despite a rigorous and comprehensive control. This shows there is no connection between cigarettes sales to the FCTC. As happened in Thailand where cigarette consumption has remained stable, the number of smokers rises because there is population growth, but tobacco control succeeded in reducing the prevalence of smokers, especially younger age groups. On the contrary, it has increased state revenues from excise taxes that rose almost as much as 4 times;
- 4. Accession of FCTC is not a foreign interest. By acceding the FCTC, Indonesia remains a sovereign state. FCTC forward the implementation of national legislation and internal policy of the country concerned in tobacco control efforts.

Komnas HAM then along with elements of civil society successfully prepared an academic paper and draft Bill of Accession of the World Health Organization (WHO) Framework Convention on Tobacco Control / FCTC) and continued to encourage the government to accede to the convention is in accordance with the mandate of Article 89 paragraph (1) of Law No. 39 of 1999 on Human Rights. In addition, Komnas HAM was also actively campaigned the importance of Local Regulation (Perda) related to smoke-free areas in the regional governments throughout Indonesia as part of tobacco control efforts in Indonesia.

Based on a number of reasons, the data and the facts aforementioned, it is very important for the Indonesian government to be a state party to the FCTC in order to protect public health from the adverse impacts of tobacco products. Therefore, Komnas HAM called on the relevant ministries to immediately support the accession of FCTC given the control of tobacco products that is not comprehensive makes Indonesia as a destination market tobacco industry that could weaken the resilience of nations at the same time neglecting the protection of the right to health and a decent environment for all Indonesians.

Implementation of Public Awareness Function

Article 89 paragraph (2) Law No. 39 of 1999: to carry out Komnas HAM function in Public Awareness, Komnas HAM has the duty and authority to;

- a. disseminate information concerning human rights to the Indonesian public;
- b. take steps to raise public awareness about human rights through formal and non-formal education institutes and other bodies;
- c. cooperate with organizations, institutions or other parties at national, regional and international level with regard human rights.

During 2014, Education and Public Awareness Sub Commission has carried out up to 17 activities, as follows:

1. Global Appeal "Elimination of Stigma and Discrimination against People affected by Leprosy (OYMPK) and Their Family Members, 27 January 2014

In the mid-2000s leprosy in Indonesia declared to have eliminated. However, WHO Report in 2008 stated that Indonesia has been occupying the 3rd position (after India and Brazil) as contributors of new leprosy patients. Therefore, the problems experienced by the lepers, the ex-lepers, and their families should be a concern of the state. People affected with leprosy and their families often experienced negative stigma and discrimination

Representatives of NHRIs all over the world and PerMata read Global Appeal 2014 Text.

UN General Assembly on 30 September 2010 has adopted principles and guidelines for the elimination of discrimination against persons affected by leprosy and their family members. Since 2006, an international movement has emerged, here in after called the Global Appeal for Leprosy led by the Nippon Foundation (TNF) and involving the world figures who care and committed to encourage the elimination of all forms of stigma and discriminations against people affected by leprosy and their family members. Following are the Global Appeal for Leprosy:

During 2014, Monitoring and Investigation Sub Commission has carried out activites in order to implement the functions, duties and authorities as follows:

I. Complaint Handling

During 2014, Komnas HAM had received 7,285 complaints documents. The number of complaints has increased significantly compared to 2013 as many as 5,919 complaints and 2012 as many as 6,284 complaints.

Based on the classification of types of rights that have been violated (by Law No.39 of 1999 on Human Rights and Law No.40 of 2008 on the Elimination of Racial and Ethnic Discrimination), the Commission complaint data 2014 appeared as follows:

No	Classification	Document	Percentage
1	The right to life	226	3%
2	The right to form family and bear children	14	0%
3	The right to self development	107	2%
4	The right to justice	3,011	41%
5	The right to individual freedom	145	2%
6	The right to security	645	9%
7	The right to welfare	2,959	41%
8	The right to participate in Government	85	1%
9	Women's rights	22	0%
10	Children's rights	55	1%
11	The right not be discriminated	16	0%
	Total	7,285	100%

Based on the table above, the right to justice is the most violated rights, shifting with the right to welfare as the most violated rights in 2013.

Some of complaint documents are referred to Monitoring and Investigation Sub Commission as many as 5,235 complaint documents which later responded by issuing letter of recommendations to 3,654 letters. The number of letter recommendations were not proportional to the number of complaint documents due to double complaints, the complainant resent another complaint letters, unclear complaints, incomplete complaints, complaints lodged to the Commission were not human rights violations, copies of letter which not need to be responded, and complaints refererred to Mediation Sub Commission.

It should be noted that the substance in the recommendation letter consisted of request of clarification, additional data and information, suggestion and appeal to follow up allegation of human rights violations and recommendation on monitoring/investigation results.

Based on the anatomy of the human rights violators, the data in 2014 did not change significantly compared to 2013, that three major perpetrators of violations are the National Police in the first place (2,483 documents), then the corporation (1,127 documents) and the Local Government (771 documents). The third actor is actually the highest human rights violators during the last five years (2010 to 2014). This may happened because the three actors have the authority and/or power obtained after the implementation of regional autonomy (2001).

The Indonesian National Commission on Human Rights

The Police in particular, this institution has large power and authority both in law enforcement and public order fields. As a result, allegations of human rights violations due to misuse of authority tended to rise from the bottom up to the level of top officials. The National Police became almost uncontrollable institutions and resulted in decreasing public trust in the process and outcomes of law enforcement. This happened because of its authority was not equipped with instruments and mechanisms for oversight and controls which were adequate and effective.

The corporation has a considerable contribution in cases of human rights violations because of its networking and big capital thus the corporation might use it to set public policy and development design including influence the authority and business licensing process. These modus are found in cases handled by the Commission. The business licensing published were more pro-investment interests rather than protecting the rights of the communities.

While the local government is the third most complained because of its excessive powers and authority as a result of regional autonomy. In many cases, the local government used its authority to sell out the investment license in order to enrich himself and his group. In fact, sometimes these three actors establish "cooperation". The usual pattern is the police conducted legal proceeding to the community that penetrated the coorporation concession on the basis of permits issued by the local government. The pattern continues so that conflicts between the coorporations and communities often leads to criminal law field because the police use of formal legal basis, without considering the substance which is the root of the problem and aspect of justice.

During 2014, Monitoring and Investigation Sub commission has carried out activities in order to implement the functions, duties and authorities are as follows:

II. Implementation of Field Monitoring

Addressing Gross Violations of Human Rights

A. Introduction

Law No. 26 of 2000 on Human Rights Court set up the mechanism for addressing gross violations of human rights. Gross violations of human rights are extraordinary crimes not such as ordinary crimes as set out in the Criminal Code (KUHP), and it resulted in both physical and material harms to the victims as well as widely impacted.

So far, gross violations of human rights in Indonesia are related to past events which until now did not find any solution. Based on experience in many countries, past human rights violation is a problem that must be addressed because it will always be carried over to the ruling regime in the years since then, although the regime was not involved (Satya Arinanto, Ihwal Keadilan Transisional (Transitional Justice), Kompas Newspaper, Thursday, 8 May 2008, p. 6.).

Addressing gross violations of human rights requires a special judicial mechanism namely the Human Rights Court. The Human Rights Court is expected to be the hope of the victims to regain their basic rights that have been violated. Nevertheless the presence of Ad Hoc Human Rights Court cannot stand alone and still need political will of the Government and Parliament.

Disclosure of gross violations of human rights is in contrast to ordinary criminal because it requires specificity (lex specialis), among others, investigators, prosecutors and ad hoc judges, protection of witnesses and victims and adheres to the retroactive principles.

As mandated by Article 18 of Law No. 26 of 2000 on Human Rights Court, disclosure gross violations of human rights cases carry out by Komnas HAM as the sole institution with the authority to conduct inquiry into cases of gross violations of human rights.

Referring to inquiry into gross violations of human rights cases, Komnas HAM has the authority to establish ad hoc team consisting of Komnas HAM and public representatives. Komnas HAM hold a very strong position in Law No. 26 of 2000 because its inquiry result is pro justicia. Upon completion of inquiry, Komnas HAM in collaboration of with the Attorney General proceed to investigation process.

The incident began with issue of the disappearance of TNI member Detasemen Rudal 001/Lilawangsa on 30 April 1999 when he infiltrated the religious lecture organized by residents of Cot Murong, North Aceh. The loss of TNI member then responded by sweeping into home of residents and place of activities that eventually reached an agreement that the search must be accompanied by Muspika, however this agreement was not adhered by the TNI members.

On 2 May 1999, members of the Detasemen Rudal on the contrary did search using violence and arrested occupants that triggered protest from residents the next day at the Koramil office. The action was responded with shots by officers that killed a number of residents and dozens of others were injured.

The shooting lasted about 20 to 30 minutes before officers left Simpang KKA. The residents survived the fire as they fled or pretend to be dead and then slowly got up and returned to the location to rescue the victims who were shot. # CRITICAL NOTES ON RACIAL AND ETHNIC DISCRIMINATION PRACTICE

"DISCRIMINATION"

Discrimination is a crime

Critical Notes on Racial and Ethnic Discrimination Practice

The Basis of Supervision

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) has determined not to tolerate acts of discrimination. Article 2 of the Universal Declaration states that Everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration, without distinction of any kind, such as race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth or other status. limitation of sovereignty.

This global commitment was followed by the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination on 4 January 1969. Through UN Resolution No. 2106 (XX) 21 December 1965, each country can accept, sign, and ratify this convention. Indonesia has ratified the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination on 25 May 1999 through Law No. 29 of 1999. The ratification of this convention created legally binding to Indonesia to the principles in the convention.

As a form of Indonesia's commitment to abolish racial and ethnic discrimination practice, then in 2008 the Government has enacted Law No. 40 of 2008 on the Elimination of Racial and Ethnic Discrimination. Komnas HAM was mandated to supervise the implementation of Law No. 40 of 2008, including to:

- a) Monitor and assess the Government and Local Government policies that considered have the potential to cause racial and ethnic discrimination;
- b) Finding fact and asses individuals, community groups, or public or private institutions which suspected of committing acts of racial and ethnic discrimination;
- c) Issues recommendations for the Government and Local Government on the results of monitoring and assessment of the actions that contain racial and ethnic discrimination;
- d) Monitors and assess the Government, Local Government and Communities in the implementation of the elimination of racial and ethnic discrimination; and
- e) Issues recommendations for the House of Representatives to conduct surveillance to the Government who does not heed Komnas HAM findings.

Implementation of Supervision

During 2014, Komnas HAM cq monitoring and investigation Sub Commission carried out several monitoring on the implementation of Law No.40 of 2008 throughout 2014. The focus of supervision was addressed for a few cases because of the supervisory function is mostly done through documents and visual evidence approach. Some cases that got the attention were the cases related to the implementation of legislative, presidential and vice presidential elections in 2014.

2014 General Election

The Presidential and Vice Presidential Election in 2014 marred by negative campaign and symbols of hatred which were quite massive and systematic compared to the previous elections. Where in the previous election the issues were only related to Java and outside Java, military and non-military, as well as foreign henchmen, then in the 2014 presidential election, issues were more widespread, varied and tendentious. The issues were stating the candidate as a puppet candidate, slanderous, ethnic, religious, racial, inter group and obituary.

The negative campaign regarding racial and ethnic was not too prominent against pair number 1, Prabowo and M. Hatta Rajasa. In contrast to the pair number 2, Joko Widodo and Jusuf Kalla, as the presidential candidate often rumored to come from ethnic Chinese and has a name Oey Hong Liong besides also rumored to be Christians and the letter H in front of his name is often interpreted as Hebertus, instead of Hajj.

This negative campaign which was spreading hatred due to racial and ethnic discrimination against Jokowi did not stop there. A media coverage, Obor Rakyat can be considered cruel because it was loaded with blasphemy and fake news about Jokowi among others Jokowi rumored came from ethnic Chinese, in addition to the Christian faith and so forth. Unfortunately this tabloid distributed in mosques and pesantren (Islamic boarding schools) in East Java, which is the base of Nahdlatul Ulama (NU), so that could rise to potential conflicts.

In the 2014 election, patterns and symbols of hatred proved to be conducted systematic, massive and destructive as well as strongly demonstrated act of discrimination against certain racial and ethnic. Following are the descriptions:

a) Racism as the main commodities

In the history of elections in Indonesia, the 2014 presidential election was an election with record-based symbols of racial hatred in addition to religious sentiment. This happened not only because of diverse variants issues, but also caused by the use of varied media dissemination of appropriate targets and goals. Some of the issues that have arisen among other allegations as a Chinese descent and religion destroyer. These issues not only have made the candidate as a target, but also given the effect of segregation, hostility, and potentially led to the violence. The racial based issues have become the most dominant issue in the 2014 presidential election.

b) Systematic

The negative campaigns and symbols of hatred were carried out in a systematic, structured, and with specific target. Several facts demonstrated those through the synergy between direct campaign, social media, mainstream media, and flyers distributed at specific targets for example the case of Obor Rakyat Tabloid. In addition to widely spread in the Islamic boarding schools, the substance was also delivered through social media, web media called VOA Islam and cyber media of the supporting parties.

c) Omission

The negative campaign, in particular the symbols of hatred based on religion and race, have occurred without any attempt to stop although it was easy to prove that the campaign was slanderous and violated the laws, both criminal and human rights law. For examples of allegations as not Moslem and Chinese descent. Surely this issue was very easy to be proved because it was done openly.

In the case of Obor Rakyat Tabloid, Criminal Investigation Agency (Bareskrim) of the National Police on 3 July 2014 has been the chief editor and two news writer, Setyardi Boediono and Darmawan Sepriyossa as suspects. These people were subjected to the Law on Press and alleged to have violated article 9, paragraph (2) of Law No. 40 of 1999 on the Press because Obor Rakyat Tabloid do not have a legal entity and a violation of the provisions faces penalty of maximum fine of Rp 100 million as set forth in the criminal provisions of Article 18 paragraph (3) of Law No. 40 of 1999 on Press. Article regarding to slander and defamation, namely Articles 310 and 311 of the Criminal Code, will be further discussed. Nevertheless, Notice of Commencement of Investigation (SPDP) has been signed by the Attorney General.

The Discrimination Case Against Arab Descent

On 16 September 2014 Komnas HAM received a complaint from Arif Sahudi, SH, MH et al from Mega Bindang Legal Aid Institute, acting for and on behalf of Drs. Muhsin Al Jufri through letter No. 152 / IX / LBH-MB / 2014 dated 12 September 2014.

According to the complainant, the message conveyed in these quotations is that the Arab descent/race was deceptive, scary and gives an atmosphere of tension to the descent group / other races which lead to racial discrimination.

The Indonesian National Commission on Human Rights

Komnas HAM in accordance with the mandate of Law No. 40 of 2008 on the Elimination of Racial and Ethnic Discrimination has requested the Ministry of Education and Culture to provide explanations and clarification on the aforementioned problems.

Dissolution of Islamic Defenders Front (FPI)

Komnas HAM has received a complaint from The Commission for Disappeared and Victims of Violence (KontraS) through letter dated 16 October 2014 regarding insistence to Komnas HAM for handling acts of racial and ethnic discrimination by the Islamic Defenders Front (FPI) and the Islamic People's Forum (FUI).

The complaint was relating to statements on 22 September 2014 which were delivered by Head of FPI Advisory Board, Misbahul Anam. The statement consisted of racial and ethnic discrimination against Ahok in the mass media Suara Islam Online. The statement are as follows:

- a) There is no evidence of a just infidel leader as well as protect the Muslim;
- b) Ahok was arrogant, imperious even rude;
- c) The various elements Jakarta communities are fed up and rejected his leadership;
- d) Ahok always shouted democracy. There is no minority led majority in democracy. For example America as a country which is referred as the teacher of democracy, there is no any Muslim governor or minister because America is a kafir country. Take a look at Bali, yesterday there was a Hindus candidate for governor that was rejected simply because he often wear a peci because the cap is considered as a symbol of Islam; and
- e) Rejection Ahok is because the Jakartans are majority-Muslim, while Ahok an infidel-Chinese descent. In a video uploaded on YouTube account belonging to FPI entitled "FPI Does Not Refuse Ahok, But Reject Kafir Leader " uploaded on 20 September 2014 (http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ft4bEDI92Kg) Habib Rizieq said that FPI reject led by the infidels, and when Ahok will lead Jakarta which the majority of Muslims then Ahok should convert to Islam first.

At a demonstration against Ahok for Governor of Jakarta on 3 October 2014 there have been act of violence committed by the FPI and FUI which resulted 21 injured police officers.

Based on the aforementioned and in accordance with Komnas HAM authority, Article 8 paragraph (2) point b of Law No. 40 of 2008 on the Elimination of Racial and Ethnic Discrimination, the Commission has requested the Chairman of the FPI and the Indonesian Islamic Voice Leaders to provide clarifications related to the complaint submitted by KontraS. The Commission has continued to collect material for supervision based on the clarification.

The Discrimination Against Minangkabau Residents

Komnas HAM has received a complaint from Advocacy and Community Minangkabau Defense who reported humiliation and human rights violations in the film Love but Different (Cinta Tapi Beda). The complainant stated that in the film which launched on 27 December 2012 have reversed the perception of cultural identity of Minangkabau society. The movie depicts the Minangkabau girl who always uses crucifix and a devout Catholic, and really liked the food, rica-rica pork.

The complainant considered that the film has been disturbing sense of community diversity of Mingkabau society because the role of Diana portrayed as a representation of Minangkabau society with a strong socio-cultural symbols, but a devout Catholic, complete with its habits. This was considered have led to hatred and contempt for Minangkabau society.

Komnas HAM has conducted monitoring on 15 May 2014, involving leaders and indigenous Elders of Minangkabau. Afterwards a meeting with the Director of the film Cinta tapi Beda, Hanung Bramantio in December 2014.

Meeting with Minangkabau leaders and indigenous elders

Conclusion

Komnas HAM hold a great responsibility in monitoring to the various efforts of racial and ethnic discrimination in Indonesia, particularly in the simultaneous implementation of the Regional Election (Pemilukada) to be held in 2015. This moment is considered to be the potential for the occurrence of such practices especially considering the experience in the legislative and the Presidential and Vice Presidential elections in 2014 by mass organizations and other civil groups.

Komnas HAM Representative Office

In order to create conducive conditions to the implementation of human rights, the Law No.39 of 1999 on Human Rights in particular the provisions of Article 76 paragraph (4) has provided an opportunity for the establishment of Komnas HAM in the regional areas. The establishment of representative office of the Commission also aims to open up access to the widest possible public complaints particularly for human rights victims who live in places far from the office of Komnas HAM in Jakarta. Representatives formation in the region have also contributed positively to the implementation of the Commission duties and functions, in particular for handling cases more quickly. Currently, Komnas HAM has six Representatives in the area.

	Total	98

Written responses were addressed to the following parties:

- Government Agencies (Central and Local);
- The Police;
- The Military ;

2. Through Field Monitoring

During February to November 2014, Monitoring and Investigation Section of Komnas HAM Representative Office in Central Sulawesi has been carried out the functions specifically related to monitoring and pre-mediation as many as 6 times. The intensity of this activity slightly decreased compared to 2013 which were 5 monitoring activities and 4 times pre mediation activities. A brief description of the activities are as follows:

- a. Monitoring activities:
  - Monitoring related legislative pre-election and during the election
  - Monitoring related to presidential pre-election and during the election
  - Monitoring in Buol District; and
  - Monitoring in Toli-Toli District

Monitoring related clashes between residents with the Police in Buol District

Monitoring cases of arrest and detention as well as alleged ill-treatment by police officers in Galang sector which resulted in the victim (Kasmir) died in the General Hospital Mokopido Toli District.

b. Pre mediation:

Land acquisition of Ms. Loliawaty Wijaya Kusuma by Poso District Government, Sangele Village, Puselemba Pamona Sub District, Poso District, Central Sulawesi Province.

III. The Obstacles

It should be mentioned that Komnas HAM Represntative Office in Central Sulawesi has not encountered any obstacle in handling and settlingcases on technical issues including distribution of request of clarification /recommendation letters. The issue of implementation of the functions in the Representative office primarily due to the vagueness of the authority delegated to the Representative Office. This condition is an irony given the complexity of the problems that occur in the field of human rights.

IV. Conclusion

The Police institution became the most complained institution during 2014 as many as 26 cases, although the logic of supremacy of law, the best step of law enforcement should start from law enforcers (police). In many cases encountered in the field, the police were not able to act objectively when there were officers involved in a crime(s). This of course greatly affected the objectivity of law enforcement. Likewise, the higher rank has the right to punish (Ankum) this perceived lack of objectivity in the taking actions against its members even there were Ankum who freed the suspect from criminal penalties.

2014

The Indonesian National Commission on Human Rights

Basically, the criminal acts committed by the police members is a violation of disciplinary rules and police ethics code, therefore, Article 12 (1) of Government Regulation No. 2 /2003 on Disciplinary Rules of Indonesian Police asserted that the "imposition of disciplinary sanctions does not erase criminal prosecution".

Apart from the aforementioned polemic, the complaints lodged to Komnas HAM Representative Office in Central Sulawesi during 2014 has decreased approximately 10.93% over the previous year. There are at least two possibilities that lead to this condition:

- 1. People aspirations are channeled through authorized government agencies; and
- 2. The level of public trust to Komnas HAM has declined. It was closely related to the inability of Komnas HAM to resolve incoming complaints This condition was strongly associated with limited authority that has been delegated the Representative Office which until now has not received clear authority. In addition, Komnas HAM recommendations may be said have no legal force.

Shortly, to carry out Komnas HAM mandate and respond public expectation, Law No. 39 of 1999 on Human Rights needs to be amended, particularly regarding the functions, duties, and authorities of Komnas HAM including clarity on the authority of the Representative Office.

Komnas HAM Representative Office in Maluku

Humanitarian conflict initially broke up in Maluku on 19 January 1999 and significantly had encourated the establishment of Komnas HAM Representative Office in Maluku. The conflict that ended up in humanitarian tragedy indicated many human rights violation cases to be addressed and handled by various parties.

To address the issue, on 14 January 2000, Komnas HAM decided to establish the investigation and mediation Commission for Human Rights violation in Maluku (KPPMM), and at the same time established liaison office to facilitate public in submitting complaints to Komnas HAM. KPPMM has worked until July 2001.

Unfortunately the conditions in Maluku has not improved. This led to the issuance of Komnas HAM Chairperson Decree Number: 0209/Komnas HAM/VII/2001 dated 2 July 2001 as the basis for establishment of Komnas HAM Representative Office in Maluku based in Ambon city.

In its development, Komnas HAM Representative Office in Maluku does not only respond to violations of rights due to social conflict, but also handle human rights violations complaints caused by unfulfilled rights of the refugees, reports of violence, land ownership dispute, etc.

Even though there were various positive developments in human rights implementation, however Komnas HAM Representative Office in Maluku noted that human rights protection in Maluku was still very low and less attention from parties such as the executive, legislative, judiciary, law enforcement and civil society.

In fact, the functions and responsibilities of the government and the state apparatus were not working as it should. A few of violences that wounded humanity triggered by act of violence by the state apparatus. One of them was the shooting and persecution that occurred in the Messiang village, South Central Aru Sub district by unscrupulous members of the mobile brigade against the Messiang peoples.

Besides the conflict inter villages (negeri), during 2014 resurfaced among other conflicts between the community Negeri Lima and community Negeri Ureng, and conflicts between community Negeri Lha and community Negeri Luhu which were motivated by the communal land disputes.

Shortly, the state as the duty bearer was not playing its role as regulated and guaranteed by the Constitution and legislation. At least this was the picture that obtained by Komnas HAM Representative Offices Maluku related to the development and situation of human rights in Maluku during 2014.

I. Complaint Service

IV. The Obstacles

In carrying out its duties and functions, Komnas HAM Representative Office in Maluku experienced several obstacles, among others:

- The bad weather factor was hindering the monitoring process to the regions so that the Representative Office can not optimize the collection of data, facts, information, and investigation of complaints and human rights violations;
- 2. Lack of of human rights knowledge are considered less especially for civil and state apparatus that have impacted on the lack of understanding, protection and enforcement of human rights;
- 3. Many state institutions that not yet understand the functions and authority of Komnas HAM that resulted in low response to these related institutions to Komnas HAM Representative Office Maluku letter of recommendation; and
- 4. Minimum of implementation of the functions of education and public awareness on human rights due to limited budget that impacted on the lack of public knowledge about Komnas HAM functions and authority.

V. CONCLUSION

Budget constraints still remain an issue that is quite prominent during 2014 especially considering the geographical conditions of Maluku Province. Maluku geographical location consisting of islands which prone to human rights abuses. This situation is very visible that should be a consideration in allocating budget specifically related to the implementation of the functions in Maluku.

Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua

Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua was established on demand by Papua peoples through the letter of Papua Province Governor Number 180/14404/SET dated 29 October 2002 concerning suggestion to establish Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua. Then, those letter become consideration for Komnas HAM to release the Komnas HAM chairperson Decree Number 20/Komnas HAM/VII/2003 on Establishment of Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua.

Inspite of the procedural mechanism, substantially as well as structurally the provision of Papua special autonomy status had opened a very broad space for protection and enforcement of human rights in Papua. Article 43 Law No. 21/2001 on Papua Special Autonomy, states that Papua Province government is obliged to recognize, respect, protect and develop the rights of indigenous people referring to the prevailing regulations. Further article 45 states that Government, Local Government and civilians of Papua Province are obliged to implement, promote, protect and respect human rights in Papua Province.

Eventually, it is common obligation of Papua government and community to establish Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua as a symbol of effort to promote and respect human rights in the era of Papua special autonomy.

In contrast to the Komnas HAM representatives in other regions, Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua is allowed to have members although since 2009, Central Komnas HAM issued a policy to cease appointing representative members due to lack of budget allocation from central government. This condition occured because the guidelines on Law Number 39 of 1999 on Human Rights, states that Komnas HAM only recognize commisioner members appointed through the president decree.

The absence of Papua Representative members effects all the duties and functions of Komnas HAM delegated to the chief and staff the Komnas HAM representative secretariat to be periodically reported to central Komnas HAM in Jakarta. Budgetary resources for the implementation of duties and functions derived from the state budget in 2014 and budgetary support from the Government of Papua Province in 2014.

I. Human Rights Condition in Papua

Papua Province was experiencing a transition of political leadership during 2014. This condition is triggered by the prolonged election of Governor and stagnant impact on local government policy, especially related to the promotion and enforcement of human rights. A slightly different conditions occured in West Papua Province. Post-inauguration of the new governor, horizontal conflicts increasingly heated. The new selected Governor believed to have sparked protests from many groups in the community as a result of policies that tend breaching the rule, namely establishment of the People's Assembly of West Papua (MRPB) which judged to have breached communal commitment to make the Papuan People's Assembly (MRP) as a forum that unites 'Papuans' although separate in two provinces.

At the same time, the issue of violations of economic, social and cultural rights remains a prominent theme and evenly in all regions. Some issue that gets public attention, among other: conflicts of land ownership with the government and enterpreneur, lack of teachers, the right to health in the villages, orientation of the traditional medicine methods, high cost of transportation between regions, price of basic commodities, and the domination of economic sectors by traders that potentially trigger crime.

While the issue of violations of civil and political rights are often influenced by the dynamics of human rights in Papua, which still revolves around clash between the armed group and the National Liberation Army (TPN) and the Free Papua Organization (OPM) with military and police. As a result, a group of innocent civilians become victims. The Police used of security standards in the name of public order. Papuan activists were arrested and put on trial by the Judiciary without considering aspects of historical, cultural and economic. The application of Article on treason influencing the decision of judges. The law enforcement has not been in favor of the human rights of the defendants.

This situation is exacerbated by the stagnation of law enforcement on cases of abduction and assasination of the Chairman of the Papuan Presidium Council (PDP), Theys Eluay, by members of Kopassus. Over the past 12 years of Papuans constantly faced a big question. At the insistence of Mrs. Yakine Ohee Eluay (Theys' wife) through the Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua, the clarity was finally obtained after repeatedly sending letters to the High Court III Surabaya.

In order to contribute more in uncertainty of human rights promotion and enforcement Papua, Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua has continuously tried to encourage discussion of the draft Regulation of the Special Region of Papua Province (Perdasus) on the Komnas HAM existencee as mandated by the Special Autonomy Law (Special Autonomy) 2001 Article 45. Unfortunately, these efforts did not get a positive response from the Government of Papua and the DPRP.

As a result, violent incidents often occured since the implementation of the Special Autonomy Law and establishment Komnas HAM Representative Office in Papua a. The situation is compounded by the weakness of local policy support for human rights promotion and enforcement in Papua. Local governments continuously facilitate the establishment Non-Governmental Organization (NGO) and provide budgetary support to the military/police. While at the same time, they have imposed restrictions for foreign journalists to do reporting human rights situation in Papua and the Papua Indigenous Council which is an organization of indigenous people have been repressed to not conduct a series of indigenous peoples agenda. No wonder, when people later using their own way to express their opinion to the local civil authorities.

IV. Closing

"Sharp downward, blunt to the top", the term is probably best describes the condition of human rights in Papua. Human Rights Enforcement is very difficult when dealing with cases involving the state. On the other hand, the law is enforced firmly and quickly to small peoples. The condition has caused at least apathy towards commitment and mechanisms of the state.

In the social context, the apathy conditions have created new problems. First, vigilante case began to appear. Second, people tend not to choose the legal process to resolve their problems, but emphasizes violence.

The promises of President-elect Joko Widodo on 27 December 2014 that violence, blood and tears in Papua should not happen again, it raises a big question on the seriousness of the state's commitment. Imagine, need not long after that, a tragedy Paniai happened. A tragedy that until today the state has not addressed yet and need to be resolved quickly, accurately and fairly by using legal mechanisms.

Adagium of sharp downward, blunt to the top is true. The Violence still continues. Violence, blood and tears in Paniai is a mirror for us to reflect ourselves.

The law formally authorizes Komnas HAM to provide an assessment of whether there is an element of gross violations of human rights in Paniai case. The most fundamental problem is the state good will to resolve this case in view of Komnas HAM limited authority The good will problem seems to have been rolled into a polemic given in cases of human rights violations before, such as Wamena-Wasior case, to today settlement like ping pong balls, aimlessly, with indeterminate results.

Indeed, we never know when the violence, blood and tears in Papua will end. Papuans like strangers in their own land. The right to education rights is still far to fulfill, access to health is very expensive, welfare belongs to those who have money and power, land so easily taken away for the sake of and on behalf of the state, the apparatus becomes oblivious to its existence. While those people who are in the forest continues shouting and state was never present there, the media continues to proclaim violence as a normal and became a public consumption. All this stunt was witnessed even played by the state.

We need to fight harder and continue to sharpen the conscience of humanity so violence, blood and tears soon pass from the Papua.

The Indonesian National Commission on Human Rights

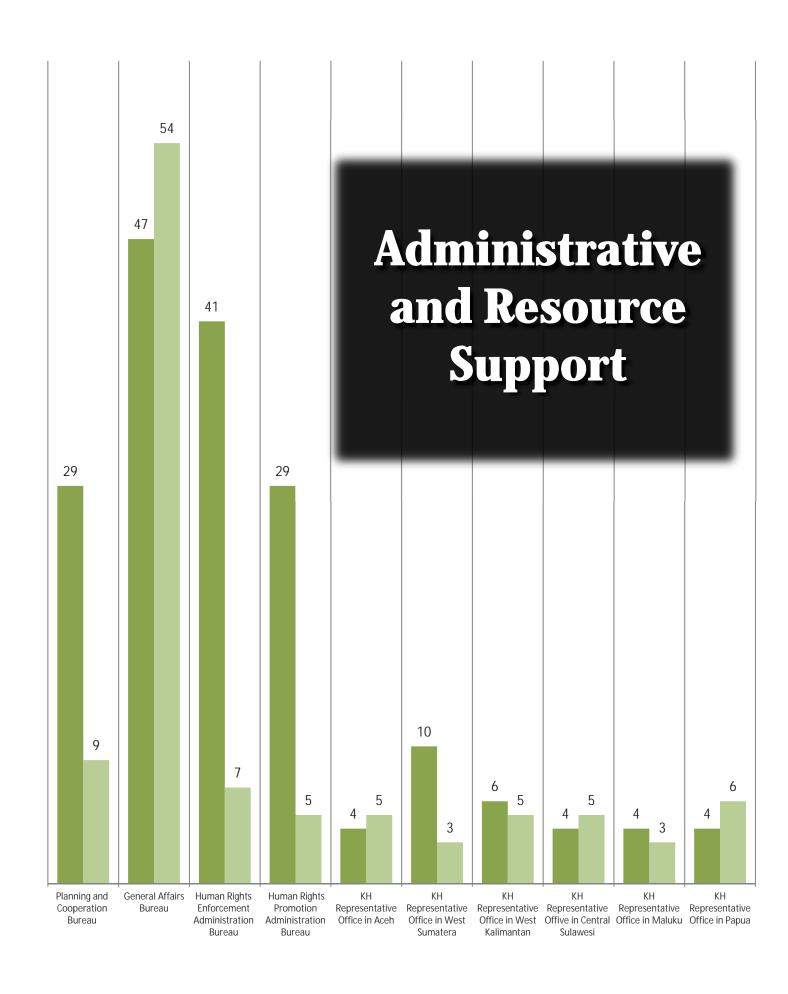

In relations between Komnas HAM and APF, throughout 2014, both institutions have carried out some activities. APF has conducted Komnas HAM Capacity Assessment in May 2014. This activity aimed to assess the institutional aspects of Komnas HAM in depth. Then the APF has conducted capacity building activity to the institution, staffs and commissioners which is the duties and functions of APF and its routinely implemented. Related to this, in November 2014 in Jakarta, APF in collaboration with Komnas HAM have conducted Regional Training on Police Detention Monitoring for staffs of three countries which are members of the APF, namely Indonesia, Malaysia and Timor Leste.

Komnas HAM has a historical attachment to SEANF because it was one of the founders of this institution. In 2014, there are three important activities undertaken related to multilateral cooperation of the Commission in SEANF. In April 2014, Komnas HAM has held technical working group of SEANF in Bali. The activity resulted in several agreements, among others, research on ASEAN mechanism of human rights, land rights workshops, and the plan to establish a permanent secretariat of SEANF. On September 2014 in Jakarta, Komnas HAM held technical working group of SEANF. This meeting was a follow-up to the previous forum. One of the main issues in this meeting was sharpening the establishment of a permanent secretariat of SEANF.

Komnas HAM hosted annual meeting of SEANF. This meeting was held in November 2014 in Bali and raised the issue of conflict resolution as part of the fulfillment of human rights. In addition a discussion on the implementation of the ASEAN Community 2015 was also conducted. This momentum was expected to continue with standards of human rights and democracy. For that, SEANF has produced recommendations for fostering cooperation between SEANF and the ASEAN Inter-governmental Commission of Human Rights (AICHR) to promote and enforce human rights in ASEAN.

During 2014, Komnas HAM has started a new iniative to be actively involved in South-South cooperation and triangular (KSST). This cooperation was not an extension of the concept of "north-south" in decade 1970-1980's that related between developed and developing countries, but rather to explore the potential of developing countries to achieve progress together with principle of good relations with others. Indonesia in this regard has taken the position not only as the recipient country, but also as donor state to partner countries. Komnas HAM has reported several activities to the National Team KSST and participated in Triangular Cooperation Coordination Workshop in late November 2014 in Bandung.

When examined further this is caused by the low budget absorption of Komnas Perempuan grant. Komnas Perempuan low budget absorption was very influential on Komnas HAM considering Komnas Perempuan is part of Komnas HAM Working Unit (Satker). In total, the budget absorption of Komnas Perempuan only reached 73.32%. While Komnas HAM budget absorption reached 94.56%. This caused the total absorption of Komnas HAM Satker be 88.50%. This condition was indeed very unfortunate due to low budget absorption of Komnas HAM Satker which greatly affected the budget increase in years to come and not obtaining the reward in the current/coming years.

Whereas, Komnas HAM has a good financial performance in the eyes of external monitoring agencies, namely the State Audit Agency (BPK). Komnas HAM has been successfully achieved predicate of unqualified opinion (WTP) for 6 times on annual financial statement for 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012 and 2013. The predicate is the highest award given by the Ministry of Finance based on the BPK audit on Komnas HAM's Financial Statements.
