I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. The delegation stated that Kenya had undertaken variety of initiatives to implement the 192 supported recommendations from the previous review and had even taken steps to consider some of the noted recommendations. In that regard, a National Committee on International and Regional Human Rights had been established. The Building Bridges Initiative was had been launched in 2018 to foster national cohesion and peace. A number of initiatives had been taken in the area of the administration of justice including the formulation of an Alternative Justice System’s Policy, the establishment of 39 High Courts in 38 counties and plans to establish at least one magistrates court in each of the 290 sub-counties. In addition, a court-annexed mediation mechanism had been introduced to resolve cases through mediation. This mechanism operated with the assistance of court accredited mediators and has the effect of reducing the backlog of cases. To combat corruption, the government has halted the illicit financial flows by demonetized the Ksh 1000 note and introduced new currency.

6. Kenya has continued to cooperate with the United Nations and the African human rights system and has issued a standing invitation in that regard. Kenya has hosted the UN Special Rapporteur on the human right to safe drinking water and sanitation, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on human rights of Internally Displaced Persons, the Independent Expert on the enjoyment of persons living with albinism, and Working group on business and human rights.

7. In relation to recommendations on economic and social rights, the “Big Four agenda” had been launched in 2017, which detailed the development priorities for 2018 to 2022.

8. The Government has introduced the universal health coverage to provide affordable health care for all, and reflected the commitment to SDG 3. The coverage, which is soon to be rolled out across the country has successfully been piloted in 4 counties. With regard to education, in 2017–2018, educational institutions increased by 5.1 percent and in 2017 secondary education was offered free of charge.

9. Kenya was the first African country to have committed to the development of a national action plan on business and human rights. Another milestone was the recent recognition of intersex people, and used in the 2019 Kenya Population and Housing Census to determine the number of intersex people, for policy and programmatic interventions.

10. Civic education and advocacy had been undertaken in the affected communities to end female genital mutilation and child marriages. The increased prosecution of accused persons also played a key role in dissuading these practices.

11. In order to address environmental degradation, measures have been put in place to ensure that the natural and artificial resources were exploited sustainably and responsibly in accordance with the international obligations. There has been an increase in the use of geothermal energy to provide power while reducing carbon emissions. A national climate change council was established pursuant to the Climate Change Act, 2016.

12. There were challenges faced in the implementation of some recommendations arising from, amongst other factors, the several terror attacks resulting in the loss of lives of civilians and security officers. The terrorist were heavily armed and suicidal, which forced the security personnel to use protective force, which had been misconstrued as being excessive. Youth were being radicalized by extremist groups.

13. In response to advance questions, the delegation stated that the Supreme Court had ruled that the mandatory nature of the death sentence as envisaged in Section 204 of the Penal Code was unconstitutional. Following this judgment, the Task Force set up by Attorney General undertook a review the death penalty and made recommends including the abolition of the death penalty.

14. Besides the transformative Constitution that gave prominence to value and principles of governance, robust legal, policy, institutional and administrative measures have been introduced to fight corruption, including the National Ethics and Anti-Corruption Policy, 2018. The Whistle Blowers Bill had been drafted and was currently before Cabinet for approval.

15. Law enforcement officers received human rights training. In 2011, an independent Civilian Oversight Authority which has oversight over police officers in their enforcement of the law. Freedom from torture was guaranteed under the Constitution. Although the Prevention of Torture Act, 2017 which gave effect to the State’s obligation under CAT, was yet to be operationalized, alleged perpetrators of torture continued to be prosecuted under the Penal Code and the National Police Service Act.

16. Challenges remained in ensuring the equal representation of women. Two bills on this issue had previously been rejected by Parliament. However, the Representation of Special Interests Group Law (Amendment) Bill, 2019, which also covers this issue, was expected to be passed.

17. A reduction in the budget of the Kenya National Commission on Human Rights was not a phenomena specific to the Commission but also affected all government entities.
18. The National Plan of Action for Children in Kenya (2015–2022) outlined the priorities and interventions necessary for the progressive realization of children’s rights. Guidelines on Identification and Referral of Children with Disability and Special Needs was also developed. A national child helpline with a toll free telephone line was introduced.
