Rutgers was established in 2010 after a merger between the World Population Foundation (WPF) and the Rutgers Nisso Groep, the Dutch Expert Centre on Sexuality. Together we have a rich history in the Netherlands – starting as far back as 1881 - and an impressive reputation and network internationally. Rutgers works for the realization of sexual and reproductive health and rights. We do so by combining implementation of programmes in the Netherlands as well as in partner countries related to comprehensive sexuality education and engaging men and boys; advocacy at national, European and international level and advocacy capacity strengthening in partner countries; and research.

The Sexual Rights Initiative (SRI) is a coalition of organizations advocating for the advancement of sexual rights since 2006. Coalition members include Action Canada for Sexual Health and Rights, Akahata, Coalition of African Lesbians, CREA, Egyptian Initiative for Personal Rights and the Federation for Women and Family Planning, among others.
