* The annex is being circulated without formal editing, in the language of submission only.

Introduction

1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review, established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1, held its thirty-fifth session from 20 to 31 January 2020. The review of Spain was held at the 4th meeting, on 22 January 2020. The delegation was headed by the State Secretary for Foreign Affairs, H.E Mr. Fernando Valenzuela Marzo. At its 9th meeting, held on 24 January 2020, the Working Group adopted the report on Spain.
2. On 14 January 2020, the Human Rights Council selected the following group of rapporteurs (troika) to facilitate the review of Spain: Bangladesh, Czechia, and Nigeria.
3. In accordance with paragraph 15 of the annex to Human Rights Council resolution 5/1 and paragraph 5 of the annex to Council resolution 16/21, the following documents were issued for the review of Spain:
  - (a) A national report submitted/written presentation made in accordance with paragraph 15 (a) (A/HRC/WG.6/35/ESP/1);
  - (b) A compilation prepared by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) in accordance with paragraph 15 (b) (A/HRC/WG.6/35/SPA/2);
  - (c) A summary prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (c) (A/HRC/WG.6/35/ESP/3).
4. A list of questions prepared in advance by Belgium, Germany, Iran (Islamic Republic of), Portugal on behalf of the Group of Friends on NMRFs, Slovenia, Sweden, and the United Kingdom of Great Britain, was transmitted to Spain through the troika. These questions are available on the website of the universal periodic review.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. Spain referred to the UPR process as an essential tool for evaluating policies and legislation on human rights, and reiterated Spain's support to OHCHR. Spain had taken advantage of the third cycle to incorporate and share good practices.
6. Spain had ratified almost all fundamental UN human rights instruments, which demonstrated its strong commitment towards human rights, as reflected in its Constitution, laws and policies. In addition, its midterm report, submitted in 2018, summarized the advances regarding the 189 recommendations received in 2015.
7. Civil society actively participated in the preparation of the national report and, in order to guarantee effective participation channels, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, European Union and Cooperation opened a public consultation process through its website. Considering the important role of the legislative, the national report included the contributions of the lower house of Spain's Parliament. The National Human Rights Institution also participated throughout the process.
8. Spain had been a pioneer in aligning the UPR recommendations with the SDGs, on the understanding that human rights and the Agenda 2030 are interrelated and mutually reinforcing. Spain organized a side event on the implementation of UPR recommendations and the SDGs during the 42nd session of the HRC.

9. From December 2015 to October 2016, and from April 2019 to January 2020, Spain had caretaker governments, which made it difficult to process some initiatives regarding the implementation of recommendations.
10. In response to several recommendations from 2015, Spain acceded to the Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness in 2018. Same year, the Ministry of Justice was given specific powers regarding follow-up on treaty bodies' opinions on individual communications. Spain continued working on its second National Human Rights Plan.
11. Spain was firmly committed to the promotion of gender equality and the eradication of all forms of violence against women and children. As such, it had undertaken numerous measures to strengthen the right to equal remuneration, and to gradually equate paternity to maternity leave. In 2017, the first National Pact against Gender-based Violence was adopted, and the current government had gender-parity and a specific Ministry of Equality.
12. Regarding the rights of persons with disabilities, reforms were made to guarantee their right to vote, their participation in trials by Jury and in relation to marriage. Nonetheless, Spain remained conscious of the challenges in other areas, such as the projected reform of the 1978 Constitution to replace obsolete language.
13. Concerning the rights of migrants, refugees and asylum seekers, Spain developed a policy for their integration, in line with the principles of equal treatment, citizenship and inclusion, and the Office for Asylum and Refugee was strengthened.
14. The Organic Law on the Protection of Citizens' Security regulates authorities intervention when assemblies have lost their peaceful character. The law does not allow for any type of public intervention based on the content of an assembly.
15. Regarding freedom of expression, in 2015 slander was decriminalized, except when it occurs in the domestic sphere.
16. Legislative changes which had taken place from its previous UPR aimed to guarantee free legal aid to victims of gender violence, terrorism and human trafficking. Regarding the rights of detainees, a legislative reform in 2015 of incommunicado detention had made the application of that measure extremely restrictive.
17. Regarding human trafficking, legislative measures criminalizing pimping and providing comprehensive protection against trafficking for the purpose of sexual exploitation were planned.
18. In 2018, the General Directorate for Historical memory was established within the Ministry of Justice. In January 2020 it has been replaced by the State Secretariat for Democratic memory within the First Vice-presidency.
19. With regards to the right to education, a draft Organic Law on Education was approved, which, for the first time, includes children's rights as the first guiding principle.
20. In connection with economic, social and cultural rights, numerous measures had been taken for the recovery of employment, including a rise of the minimum wage in 2019. In addition, numerous regulatory reforms to address housing issues and a national Urban Agenda were adopted, and a bill guaranteeing the right to housing was being drafted. Regarding the right to health, the universal public health system was reinstated in 2018, extending it to all persons in Spain, including those who are not registered or authorized as residents.
21. A National Action Plan on Business and Human Rights was approved in 2017, with the aim of applying the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights.

22. Progress made regarding Spain's commitments as candidate to the Human Rights Council 2018–2020 and mentioned Agenda 2030, the fight against climate change, the human right to science, disinformation and the demographic change as emerging challenges.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

23. During the interactive dialogue, 110 delegations made statements. Recommendations made during the dialogue are to be found in section II of the present report.

24. Iran acknowledged Spain's good cooperation with the relevant international human rights mechanisms.

25. Iraq commended Spain's cooperation with treaty bodies and national plans adopted.

46. Netherlands welcomed the alignment of UPR recommendations with the SDGs and steps to combat gender based discrimination and violence.
47. Niger congratulated Spain for submitting a mid-term UPR report and for financial contribution to OHCHR.
48. Nigeria applauded efforts in combating racism, racial discrimination and xenophobia, and safeguarding the rights of migrants, refugees and asylum seekers.
49. North Macedonia welcomed the development of legal framework regarding rights of the child.
50. Norway noted positive steps taken since the last review and stated that further progress was possible in some areas.
51. Pakistan noted efforts to integrate women into public, political and economic life.
52. Panama acknowledged the reduction in gender pay gap and adoption of the State pact on gender violence.
53. Paraguay welcomed the progress made and reiterated recommendations which had not been yet implemented.
54. Peru welcomed the progress made regarding human rights.
55. Philippines made recommendations.
56. Poland commanded amendment to the Criminal Code and strengthening the legislation on the elimination of all forms of violence.
57. Portugal welcomed accession to the 1961 Convention on the reduction of Statelessness.
58. Qatar commended efforts to coordinate actions to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals.
59. Republic of Korea welcomed progress in areas such as business and human rights and gender equality.
60. Republic of Moldova appreciated Spain's devotion to protection and promotion of human rights.
61. Romania commended Spain's commitment to human rights, including through its activity in the HRC.
62. The Russian Federation noted efforts to improve legislation concerning human rights, but noted violations of migrants' rights.
63. Senegal commanded efforts in the education, fight against poverty and social exclusion.
64. Serbia commended the measures aimed at improvement of children rights.
65. Slovakia appreciated Spain's dedication to promote gender equality and eliminate all forms of violence.
66. Slovenia noted that challenges remain regarding the corporal punishment of children within the domestic environment.

67. Solomon Islands commended efforts and initiatives in meeting human rights commitments.
68. Somalia commended the adoption of laws modified the child and adolescent protection system.
69. Sri Lanka noted measures taken to promote gender equality, including equal pay.
70. State of Palestine welcome efforts to prevent violence and protect children and adolescents from any violence.
71. Sudan commended efforts to strengthen human rights, especially submitting periodic reports to the various treaty bodies.
72. Sweden encouraged Spain to continue combating human trafficking and ensure the rights to seek asylum.
73. Switzerland noted measures taken to ensure gender equality. It was concerned about some restrictions on the freedom of expression.
74. Thailand noted efforts to strengthen the cooperation in the area of migration.

76. Togo noted the adoption of a national action plan on business and human rights.
77. Tunisia valued the adoption of human rights legislation and institutional framework regarding anti-trafficking in persons.
78. Turkey noted efforts to combat discrimination and racism, and improve living conditions of migrants, refugees and asylum seekers.
79. Turkmenistan noted the second national human rights action plan and achievements in promoting the rights of children and persons with disabilities.
80. Ukraine noted improvements in various areas, including combating human trafficking, hate crimes and discrimination.
81. The United Kingdom noted steps taken to protect the rights of women and tackle gender-based violence.
82. The United States commended Spain for its continued commitment to protect human rights.
83. Uruguay encouraged Spain to adopt legislation to guarantee the rights of minorities, especially migrants.
84. Spain indicated that the Second National Human Rights Plan, had been delayed because of the previously stated political circumstances. However, Spain remained a firm committed. The Plan was expected to include a coordination body and human rights indicators. Meanwhile, coordination on human rights international commitments had been assumed by the Human Rights Office of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, European Union and Cooperation.
85. The Spanish legislation guaranteed the rights of migrants. Any decision on the ratification of the migrant workers Convention needs to be coordinated within the European Union. No European Union member State had yet ratified the Convention so far.
86. The procedures for expulsion, return and refusal of entry were carried out with full respect of Spain's legal system, including the Conventions that Spain had ratified. The Asylum Act set out that applicants for international protection shall be provided with necessary social, legal and medical services, which also applied in Ceuta and Melilla. The number of asylum seekers had multiplied more than twentyfold from 2014 to 2019.

87. Regarding solitary confinement, Spain's prison system allowed for such treatment only for the most serious offences and limited to 14 days. If solitary confinement is to exceed this period, because of the consecutive enforcement of several sanctions, it must be approved by the Prison Supervision Court. In addition, any allegation of torture was immediately recorded and gives rise to an investigation by the internal police inspection units and it could also result in a judicial procedure.
88. The 1983 Organic Law on the Right of Assembly guaranteed the right to demonstrate. The minimum notification periods were very short, so that almost spontaneous demonstrations were possible. The police can only intervene in a public assembly when it is no longer peaceful, endangering the physical integrity of people or things.
89. The final version of the Organic Law on the Protection of Citizens' Security replaced generic terms, such as security of citizens or public order, with factual descriptions to better settle the limits of police action. Spain had few laws governing freedom of expression, which favors a broad and free exercise of this right. In 40 years, Spain has only been condemned in 8 cases regarding freedom of expression by the European Court of Human Rights.
90. Regarding gender-based violence, the Royal Decree-Law of 2018 extended coverage to the greatest possible number of women, thus improving the legal assistance of victims. In recent years, the legislative framework for expanding measures for victims of gender-based violence had been strengthened.
91. Venezuela highlighted the ratification of the Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness.
92. Viet Nam noted the adoption of laws to ensure equal access to health care to foreigners and gender equality.
93. Afghanistan noted efforts to improve participation of women in political life and decision-making positions and combat gender-based violence.
94. Albania encouraged Spain to implement its plan on rights of children and adolescents for 2019–2023.

129. Fiji welcomed actions to combat climate change, including the National Climate Change Adaptation Plan.
130. France welcomed progress on gender equality, children's rights and migration.
131. Gabon welcomed cooperation with OHCHR and the HRC mechanisms.
132. Georgia appreciated legislative measures aimed at protecting and empowering women.
133. Germany remains concerned about Spain's asylum system and its potentially broad interpretation of "public security and order".
134. Ghana commended the establishment of the National Human Rights Bureau of the National Police.
135. Greece commended efforts in combatting all forms of intolerance.
136. Haiti recognized efforts to improve the human rights situation in Spain's territory and abroad.
137. Honduras welcomed the entry into force of the Convention to Reduce Cases of Statelessness.
138. Iceland welcomed Spain's engagement with human rights and the steps outlined in the national report.
139. India welcomed progress under the National Strategy for the Social Inclusion of the Gypsy Population.
140. Indonesia commended Spain's strides made in ensuring a high percentage of women representation in politics.
141. Regarding sexual violence against women, Spain indicated that a preliminary draft law to amend the Criminal Code was currently under way, in order to reinforce the protection of liberty and sexual integrity.
142. Regarding professional training to legal professionals, the Royal Decree-Law of 2018 included a specialized training on gender-based violence into the career systems for Judges and Prosecutors.
143. The Government was working in a new Strategic Plan for Equal Opportunities. Moreover, a Royal-Decree Law of 2019, reinforced the right to equal pay and was a noteworthy step towards full equality of treatment and opportunities for men and women in work and employment.
144. As other achievement since 2015, a Law raised the age of sexual consent to 16 years, strengthened the punishment of child pornography and reinforced protection against abuse on the Internet. Spain was currently working on a draft bill for the comprehensive protection of children from violence. Moreover, a Deputy Ombudsman coordinates cases concerning the rights of the child within the Office of the Ombudsman.
145. Different measures had been taken to improve the situation of unaccompanied minors. Among other reforms, Spain was working in amending the age assessment procedure.

146. The creation in 2018 of the post of High Commissioner for the Fight against Child Poverty was highlighted, and the allowance for dependent children, which was increased by 17% in 2019. There were also plans for developing a National Strategy for the Prevention and Fight against Poverty and Social Exclusion for the years 2019 to 2023.

147. Regarding the fight against racial discrimination, xenophobia and other forms of intolerance, the draft Law on Equal Treatment and Non-Discrimination will be resubmitted to the new legislature. Spain named the measures adopted to improve the situation of Roma and to address demands of Afro descendent people and emphasized that there is no racial profiling in Spain.

148. Regarding housing, the Royal Decree of March 2019 had improved coordination with social services to protect persons in vulnerable situations in the context of the enforcement of eviction orders. Moreover, in 2015 the Social Fund for Housing was created to provide rented dwellings to those evicted due to non-payment of a mortgage loan. and the State Housing Plan 2018–2021 included a rent-support programme.

149. Spain concluded by reiterating its commitment to UPR, and, more generally, to UN human rights bodies, whose independence and credibility must be guaranteed.
