We note with appreciation the pledge of Azerbaijan to extend a standing invitation for all UN special procedure mandate holders as mentioned in the Aide Memoire attached to the Note No 259/N dated 12 November 2008 from the Permanent Mission of the Republic of Azerbaijan to the United Nations Office and other international organizations in Geneva. ### LIECHTENSTEIN

- In 2006 the United Nations Committee on the Rights of the Child (CRC) expressed concern at the growing number of street children in Azerbaijan, who are also often victims of exploitation, ill-treatment and abuse and at the lack of recovery, medical treatment, social integration or educational programmes for street children. CRC recommended that Azerbaijan undertake a study on the root causes and extent of this phenomenon and that Azerbaijan establish a comprehensive strategy to prevent it and reduce the number of street children. It also recommended that Azerbaijan provide street children with adequate nutrition, clothing, housing and educational opportunities, including vocational and life-skill training, in order to support their development and prevent their exploitation. How does Azerbaijan intend to follow up on these recommendations?

- In 2007 the United Nations Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) expressed concern at the prevalence of violence against women in Azerbaijan. CEDAW was also concerned that discrimination against women remains widespread in matters relating to marriage and family relations despite legislation guaranteeing equal rights. - Human rights organisations which are operating in sensitive areas, such as women's rights and LGTB rights, as well as religious groups, are subjected to harassment and sometimes even violence. It appears also to be increasingly difficult for NGOs to get registered.

Could the government of Azerbaijan comment on this?

- Representative on Freedom of the Media, Miklos Haraszti, has criticized Azerbaijan's decision, stating that it constitutes "a serious step backwards for democracy". What measures is the government of Azerbaijan taking to ensure and promote a free media?

- The constitution of Azerbaijan stipulates that groups may peacefully assemble with prior notification of relevant government bodies, however, civil society organisations express concern that the new advanced permission, which is often refused, in particular in the up-coming of the elections of last year, circumscribes this right.
