- The UK notes that paragraph 54 of Azerbaijan's national report states that: "all kinds of violations of law, including violations against journalists and human rights defenders, are widely investigated, relevant measures are taken and those committing such violations are necessarily brought to justice and accordingly punished". We would like to know how many violations against journalists and human rights defenders have resulted in prosecution since Azerbaijan's UPR in 2009, and what steps are being taken to reduce the number of violations.
- What steps is the government of Azerbaijan going to take ahead of the presidential elections to create an open political space that will allow all potential presidential candidates, political activists and journalists to carry out their legitimate activities freely and without fear of harassment?
- What steps are being taken to address the shortcomings identified by the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) observers during the last presidential and parliamentary elections?
- An independent judiciary is an essential element in the effective implementation of the rule of law. We would like to know if Azerbaijan will conduct analysis of alleged deficiencies in judicial practice and give full consideration to reports of alleged shortcomings resulting in unfair trials, in line with a recommendation from the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe.
