Human Rights Council
Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review
Thirteenth session
Geneva, 21 May - 4 June 2012

Summary prepared by the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in accordance with paragraph 5 of the annex to Human Rights Council resolution 16/21

United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland*

The present report is a summary of 75 stakeholders' submissions¹ to the universal periodic review. It follows the general guidelines adopted by the Human Rights Council in its decision 17/119. It does not contain any opinions, views or suggestions on the part of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), nor any judgement or determination in relation to specific claims. The information included herein has been systematically referenced in endnotes and, to the extent possible, the original texts have not been altered. As provided for in Resolution 16/21 of the Human Rights Council, where appropriate, a separate section is provided for contributions by the national human rights institution of the State under review that is accredited in full compliance with the Paris. The full texts of all submissions received are available on the OHCHR website. The report has been prepared taking into consideration the periodicity of the review and developments during that period.

* The present document was not edited before being sent to United Nations translation services.

I. Information provided by the accredited national human rights institutions of the State under review in full compliance with the Paris Principles

Background and framework

1. The Northern Ireland Human Rights Commission (NIHRC)² referred to recommendations 12,³ 15,⁴ 21,⁵ 22,⁶ 23,⁷ 24⁸ and 26⁹ and stated that the United Kingdom should inter alia (a) remove its interpretative declaration¹⁰ in relation to the OP-CRC-AC; its interpretative declaration¹¹ in relation to ICERD; and its reservations to Articles 12. 4, 24(a) and (b) and 27 of CRPD; (b) ratify the ICCPR-OP1, ICCPR-OP2, ICESCR-OP and ICRMW;¹² (c) issue the required declarations under Article 22 of CAT and Article 14 of ICERD.¹³

2. NIHRC referred to recommendation 19¹⁴ and stated that a bill of rights for Northern Ireland was yet to be introduced.¹⁵

3. The Scottish Human Rights Commission (SHRC) stated that the Scottish Government's initiative to introduce a duty on its Ministers to have "due regard" to the CRC should be extended to other international human rights treaties, but should not be an alternative to the incorporation of these instruments.¹⁶ The Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC)¹⁷ stated that the Welsh Government introduced similar legislation, and recommended a similar model for England.¹⁸

4. EHRC expressed concern over the inequalities in the enjoyment of the right to health, education and employment.¹⁹

5. SHRC stated that its budget has been cut and recommended that the Scottish Parliament ensure adequate funding to enable functioning in accordance with the Paris Principles.²⁰

6. NIHRC referred inter alia to recommendation 13²¹ and called for a national programme to combat overcrowding in prisons; action to address high prison populations;²² and a Foreign National Prison Strategy.²³ NIHRC stated that there was no women's prison and gender-appropriate services in Northern Ireland.²⁴

7. EHRC stated that Inquiries that examined allegations of torture in Iraq, including the Baha Mousa Inquiry, fell short of a full public inquiry.²⁵ The Detainee Inquiry that will investigate allegations of complicity in torture abroad should comply with international standards.²⁶

8. EHRC expressed concern that as recipients of health and social care, elderly people whose home care was delivered by private providers did not have the same level of protection under the Human Rights Act when compared to those who received care from public bodies.²⁷

9. EHRC stated that the current proposals for legal aid reform should not unduly restrict legal aid for civil cases, as this would affect access to justice for the most vulnerable.²⁸

10. In relation to freedom of association and peaceful assembly, EHRC recommended restrictions on the use of "kettling", overt and covert surveillance of protestors, pre-emptive measures and banning orders.²⁹

11. EHRC remained concerned that progress in reducing the gender-pay gap was considerably slow and recommended government policies and legal provisions to encourage equal pay practices.³⁰
12. EHRC stated that proposed reforms to the welfare system may impact unfavourably on vulnerable people, especially people who were disabled.³¹
13. SHRC stated that the recent forced eviction from Dale Farm in England was an example of the failure to adopt human rights based strategies to reconcile the rights of the Gypsy/Traveller communities to those of settled communities.³²
14. EHRC expressed concern inter alia about the lack of protection for migrant domestic workers.³³
15. NIHRC referred to recommendations 9³⁴ and 15³⁵ and recommended that the United Kingdom implement the 1st and 2nd phases of the WPHRE³⁶ and that the Northern Ireland Executive prioritises human rights training in schools and in the civil service.³⁷
16. NIHRC referred to recommendation 12³⁸ and recommended investigations into deaths that occurred during the conflict in Northern Ireland.³⁹
17. NIHRC referred to recommendations 6⁴⁰ and 9,⁴¹ and expressed concern that the Terrorism Prevention and Investigation Measures Bill retained the use of ‘closed hearings’ using the special advocate procedure.⁴²
18. NIHRC referred to recommendations 2,⁴³ 7⁴⁴ and 9⁴⁵ and stated that the over-use of custodial remand for children in Northern Ireland indicated that the CRC was not fully implemented.⁴⁶
19. SHRC stated that Scotland’s prisons continued to operate beyond capacity and concerns existed, inter alia, with the increasingly disproportionate number of female prisoners.⁴⁷
20. NIHRC referred to recommendations 2,⁴⁸ 9⁴⁹ and 25⁵⁰ and stated that the current age of criminal responsibility across the United Kingdom – 10 years in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, and 12 years in Scotland – was too low.⁵¹
21. NIHRC referred to recommendation 16, the Child Poverty Act 2010 and the Child Poverty Strategy, and called on the United Kingdom to specify how it intended to end child poverty.⁵²
22. NIHRC referred to recommendations 1,⁵³ 3,⁵⁴ 4⁵⁵ and 5⁵⁶ and stated inter alia that prevalence of domestic and sexual violence remained high in Northern Ireland.⁵⁷
23. NIHRC referred to recommendation 15⁵⁸ and stated that the “UK Single Equality Act” was not applicable to Northern Ireland and the commitment in the St Andrew’s Agreement to a Single Equality Bill was yet to materialise.⁵⁹
24. SHRC stated that the Scottish Government expressed its commitment to exploring human rights based approach to climate change, and recommended the implementation of this commitment.⁶⁰

II. Information provided by other stakeholders

A. Background and framework

1. Scope of international obligations⁶¹

25. Joint Submission 10 (JS 10) referred to recommendations 25⁶² and 26⁶³ and stated that the United Kingdom has lifted its reservations to the CRC on immigration and citizenship, and ratified the OP-CRC-SC and the CRPD.⁶⁴

26. Save the Children (SC) stated that the United Kingdom has not withdrawn its reservation to OP-CRC-SC.⁶⁵

27. Child Soldiers International (CSI) stated that the United Kingdom considered its declaration when OP-CRC-AC was ratified to be an “interpretive statement” rather than a reservation. As the declaration limited the legal effect of OP-CRC-AC, it was tantamount to being a reservation.⁶⁶

28. Joint Submission 9 (JS 9) encouraged the United Kingdom to withdraw the four reservations and the interpretive declaration it had entered when it ratified CRPD.⁶⁷

29. Joint Submission (JS 6) stated that the United Kingdom has failed to meet its international obligations arising from CEDAW, ICESCR and ICCPR because it has not extended to Northern Ireland, the abortion legislation introduced in England, Scotland and Wales in 1967.⁶⁸

30. The Redress Trust (Redress) stated that the United Kingdom has not accepted the right of petition under CAT; and has not ratified the ICCPR-OP2.⁶⁹

31. The Children's Rights Alliance for England (CRAE)⁷⁰ called for acceptance of the right of petition with regard to the ICCPR-OP1, CPED,⁷¹ and the CAT.⁷²

32. Joint Submission 13 (JS 13) called for the ratification of ICRMW, ICESCR-OP and ICCPR-OP1.⁷³

33. Joint Submission 12 (JS 12) stated that the actions of the police, pursuant to Section 60 of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994,⁷⁴ were in violation of CERD and UDHR.⁷⁵

34. Council of Europe – European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (CoE-ECRI) urged the United Kingdom to sign and ratify Protocol No. 12 to the European Convention on Human Rights.⁷⁶

2. Constitutional and legislative framework

35. Joint Submission 8 (JS 8) and JS 10 stated that none of the human rights treaties ratified by the United Kingdom has been incorporated into law,⁷⁷ including the CRC.⁷⁸ JS 9 stated that the failure to incorporate the CRPD into law limited the enforcement of rights of persons with disabilities.⁷⁹

36. JS 8 stated that in Wales, the Rights of Children and Young Persons Measure, passed in March 2011, placed a duty on Ministers to have due regard to the CRC in exercising any of their functions.⁸⁰ JS 10 stated that the Scotland's bill, similar to the Welsh Measure, could not serve as an alternative to the incorporation of the CRC into law.⁸¹

37. Conscience and Peace Tax International (CPTI) recommended that the United Kingdom enshrine in legislation the procedures for release from the armed forces on grounds of conscientious objection.⁸²

38. JS 10, JS 8, Amnesty International (AI), Justice, Freedom from Torture (FT), JUST West Yorkshire (JWY) and the Law Society of England and Wales (LS) stated that the United Kingdom Government established a Commission to explore the creation of a “UK Bill of Rights”. This Commission operated “within a political environment”⁸³ that was “openly hostile to human rights”⁸⁴. Its terms of reference made no mention of the HRA when any new bill of rights should build on and strengthen the current protection for human rights provided by the HRA. The HRA included a mechanism for dividing responsibility between Parliament, the executive and the courts for ensuring effective protection of human rights. However, there was now a “political agenda to redefine these responsibilities with a view to diluting the role of the courts”⁸⁵. Consequently, concerns were raised about the possible replacement of the HRA.⁸⁶ LS recommended that the retention of HRA with none of the rights removed or diluted and the inclusion of additional rights.⁸⁷

39. JS 13 called on the United Kingdom to guarantee during its upcoming review that the HRA will be maintained and built upon.⁸⁸

40. The Office of the Children’s Commissioner (OCC)⁸⁹ recommended that a new bill of rights should include specific rights for children.⁹⁰

41. The Committee on the Administration of Justice (CAJ) and JS 13 stated that The Belfast (Good Friday) Agreement⁹¹ provided for a Bill of Rights for Northern Ireland.⁹² BIRW stated that Northern Ireland needed a Bill of Rights that would reflect its own particular circumstances.⁹³

3. Institutional and human rights infrastructure and policy measures

42. SC called for compliance of the four Children’s Commissioners with the Paris Principles.⁹⁴

43. The Children’s Commissioner for Wales (CCW) called for legislative amendment to remove the OCC’s functions in Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland over non-devolved issues, enabling each of the Children’s Commissioners to promote and protect all of the rights of children in their devolved territories.⁹⁵

44. OCC stated that the “Public Bodies Bill” which will allow Ministers to modify inter alia the functions of the Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC), was inconsistent with the EHRC’s status as an independent NHRI.⁹⁶

45. JS 8 stated that it remained concerned about inter alia the lack of a strategic approach by the Welsh Government with regard to children’s rights.⁹⁷

46. AI stated that the United Kingdom took a restrictive interpretation of the extraterritorial application of human rights protections under international law in relation to its obligations to regulate United Kingdom based companies operating overseas.⁹⁸

47. Institute for Human Rights Business (IHRB) stated that United Kingdom removed the criteria for environmental and social impact assessments on certain projects that were required for project funding by the Export Credit Guarantee Department (ECGD)/ UK Export Finance (UKEF).⁹⁹

48. Joint Submission 11 (JS 11) stated that the activities of a significant number of United Kingdom registered companies, operating within indigenous territories around the world, have violated the rights of Indigenous People.¹⁰⁰

B. Cooperation with human rights mechanisms

Cooperation with treaty bodies¹⁰¹

49 JS 9 expressed concern about the United Kingdom's delay in submitting its initial report to CRPD.¹⁰²

C. Implementation of international human rights obligations, taking into account applicable international humanitarian law

1. Equality and non-discrimination

50. CoE-ECRI stated that while progress has been made towards eliminating discrimination, inequalities remain.¹⁰³

51. JS 13 stated that some sections of the Equality Act 2010 (EA) were yet to come into force.¹⁰⁴ JS 9 stated that provisions on achieving equality for persons with disabilities were weak.¹⁰⁵

52. CCW stated that the EA did not offer children protection from discrimination on the grounds of their age.¹⁰⁶

53. Abused Men in Scotland (AMIS) stated that in Scotland there was an institutional bias against men in relation to access to their children in cases which included divorce or separation.¹⁰⁷

54. UKJCW stated that the labour market was characterised by persistent occupational segregation, rooted in gendered patterns of skills acquisition, which are underpinned by stereotyping girls' and women's aptitudes, preferences, and capabilities.¹⁰⁸

55. Joint Submission 5 (JS 5) stated that because of their caste Dalits faced discrimination in various areas including employment.¹⁰⁹ At a meeting in the House of Lords, it was decided to amend the EA to provide for caste as an aspect of race.¹¹⁰

56. ODVV stated that the counter-terrorism policy encouraged the public to treat Muslims as legitimate objects of abuse.¹¹¹

2. Right to life, liberty and security of the person

57. JS 7 stated that the Detainee Inquiry that will examine the alleged complicity of the intelligence services in tortures abroad was unlikely to comply with relevant international and domestic laws.¹¹²

58. Redress stated that *Guidance*¹¹³ to intelligence officers on cooperation with foreign agencies where it was known or believed that torture would occur was inconsistent with the CAT.¹¹⁴

59. Redress stated that the United Kingdom should accept the extra-territorial application of the CAT and the ICCPR for actions of its officials abroad,¹¹⁵ and the obligation to prosecute or extradite torture suspects who entered its jurisdiction.¹¹⁶

60. British Irish Rights Watch (BIRW) stated that the plastic bullets used by the police in riot control in Northern Ireland could potentially cause fatalities.¹¹⁷

61. The Council of Europe, the European Commission on the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (CoE-CPT) stated that in England and Wales the policy and guidance on the use of electro-shock weapons (Tasers) by police was loosely worded and opened the door to the misuse of Tasers.¹¹⁸

62. AMIS stated that domestic abuse was a significant problem in Scotland,¹¹⁹ and men, as victims, were marginalised by the authorities.¹²⁰

63. GIEACPC referred to recommendations 2,¹²¹ 3,¹²² 4,¹²³ and 5¹²⁴ and stated that since the Review,¹²⁵ the legality of corporal punishment of children in the United Kingdom remained unchanged.¹²⁶ Corporal punishment remained lawful in the home.¹²⁷ The Commissioner for Human Rights of the Council of Europe (CoE-Commissioner) stated that the laws were not compliant with international human rights standards.¹²⁸ JS 8 stated that they were in breach of the CRC.¹²⁹

64. GIEACPC stated that corporal punishment was prohibited in all state and private schools. In the penal system, corporal punishment was unlawful as a sentence for a crime. Corporal punishment was also prohibited in residential care institutions and in foster care arranged by local authorities or voluntary organisations, but remained lawful in private foster care.¹³⁰

65. World Vision (WVUK) stated that while British citizens and residents were prosecuted in the United Kingdom for exploitation and abuse of children abroad, the rate of successful prosecutions remained low.¹³¹

66. UKJCW stated that the United Kingdom government has made little progress on creating a coordinated, 4-nation strategy on violence against women.¹³²

67. CoE-CPT made recommendations with regard to arrests, detention and imprisonment of persons which included providing detained persons with written copies of their rights.¹³³

68. Women in Prison (WIP) stated that the lack of appropriate clothing for women in some prisons infringed their right to dignity.¹³⁴ HLPR stated that the prison service did not meet the needs of vulnerable women.¹³⁵

69. BIRW stated, in relation to Northern Ireland, that in the Her Majesty's Maghaberry prison, the separation of paramilitary prisoners from other prisoners restricted access to facilities.¹³⁶ Also, there was no separate women's prison.¹³⁷

70. SCLD stated that many of the programmes aimed at rehabilitation and parole of prisoners with learning disabilities were not accessible.¹³⁸

71. The Poppy Project (PP) stated that there was no free-standing legal framework for the recognition or protection of trafficking victims and there was an overreliance on the asylum system to inform decision-making on trafficking.¹³⁹

72. ASI stated that the National Referral Mechanism (NRM)¹⁴⁰ was formally used to identify victims of human trafficking. The NRM was flawed. It, inter alia, relied excessively on the discretion of officials, who had minimal training.¹⁴¹

73. The Organization for Defending Victims of Violence (ODVV) stated that care for adult women trafficked for sexual exploitation was provided to those victims who satisfied specific criteria. Thus, not all victims in need of care received such care.¹⁴²

3. Administration of justice, including impunity and the rule of law

74. BIRW stated that the United Kingdom has failed to set-up a mechanism to address the legacy of the conflict in Northern Ireland, despite such recommendation from the Consultative Group on the Past.¹⁴³

75. BIRW stated that the United Kingdom Government agents colluded with both republican and loyalist paramilitaries throughout the conflict in Northern Ireland; and that there was such collusion in the murder of Patrick Finucane. However, despite the 2001

“Weston Park Agreement”¹⁴⁴ and the recommendation of retired Canadian Supreme Court Judge Peter Cory, an inquiry has not been held.¹⁴⁵

76. Scottish Campaign against Irresponsible Drivers (SCID) stated that accident victims injured as a consequence of criminal driving were not recognised as victims of crime.¹⁴⁶

77. CoE-ECRI recommended training of personnel in the criminal justice system on the legal prohibition of racially or religiously aggravated behaviour in Northern Ireland.¹⁴⁷

78. Justice stated that Scottish criminal procedure provided for a detainee to have access to legal representation while at a police station. However, in England and Wales, a detainee’s access to legal representation was at the discretion of individual police officers.¹⁴⁸

79. Howard League for Penal Reform (HLPR) stated that despite the announcement that the Imprisonment for Public Protection sentence will be abolished, the large number of people serving indeterminate sentences will continue to be held indefinitely and until the prison service was able to provide the required courses for their eligibility for release.¹⁴⁹

80. LS stated that allegations that members of the legal profession were subjected to phone hacking and surveillance by some newspapers merited specific consideration by the Leveson Inquiry,¹⁵⁰ as these practices may have been carried out with the intention of undermining court action, and could have constituted an attempt to pervert the course of justice.¹⁵¹

81. CCW called for a re-orientation of the juvenile justice system in order to inter alia ensure the non-criminalisation of children; and respect for the rights of children in custody.¹⁵² JS 7 stated that staffs at the four secure training centres,¹⁵³ which were privately run, were inadequately trained.¹⁵⁴ HLPR expressed concerns about the use of restraint, solitary confinement and forcible strip-searching of children in custody.¹⁵⁵ OCC stated that pain-inflicting restraint techniques were used despite the risk of serious injury to children.¹⁵⁶

82. BIRW stated that the United Kingdom’s intelligence services operated secretly and was not subject to any public oversight, nor were individual operatives held to account for their actions.¹⁵⁷

83. HRCS stated that the Scottish Parliament has barred it from providing assistance for human rights cases.¹⁵⁸

84. WIP stated that women faced discrimination and inequality in the criminal justice system and the United Kingdom has not taken discernible action to implement a gender-responsive criminal justice system.¹⁵⁹

4. Right to privacy

85. The Scottish Transgender Alliance (STA) stated that the “Gender Recognition Act 2004” prevented intersex people from accessing legal gender recognition.¹⁶⁰

86. Islamic Human Rights Commission (IHRC) stated the introduction of body scanners in Heathrow and Manchester airports violated the right to privacy.¹⁶¹

5. Freedom of religion or belief, expression, association and peaceful assembly, and right to participate in public and political life

87. The Odysseus Trust (OT) stated that the common law offences of blasphemy and blasphemous libel which were abolished in England and Wales still existed in Northern Ireland.¹⁶²

88. English PEN (PEN) stated that current libel laws in England and Wales significantly infringed free expression and discouraged legitimate investigative reporting.¹⁶³

89. Article 19 stated that the Digital Economy Act 2010 required internet service providers (ISPs) to inter alia take measures against subscribers without legal process,¹⁶⁴ and Nominet, the domain name register, was considering freezing domain names at the request of the police, without a court order.¹⁶⁵

90. Article 19 stated that the “Official Secrets Act” was frequently used to silence government whistle-blowers.¹⁶⁶

91. Engender¹⁶⁷ stated that mechanisms for improving women’s access to power, participation and decision making were failing. It recommended inter alia compulsory quotas for candidate selection.¹⁶⁸

6. Right to work and to just and favourable conditions of work

92. The Joseph Rowntree Foundation (JRF) stated that the lack of knowledge of employment rights, amongst other factors, made migrant workers vulnerable to exploitation.¹⁶⁹

93. IHRB stated that The Gangmasters Licensing Authority which has been an effective enforcement body of the rights of vulnerable workers within its five industry sectors may either face severe funding cuts or closure.¹⁷⁰

94. Kalayaan stated that domestic workers in diplomatic households reported similar levels of abuse to those in private households and were found to be twenty times more likely to have been trafficked.¹⁷¹

95. Kalayaan stated that despite the recognition of the visa for domestic workers in private households (visa) as good practice by the International Labour Organisation,¹⁷² the United Kingdom proposed to either end the issuance of the visa or amend it. Kalayaan called for the retention of the visa and its extension to domestic workers in diplomatic households.¹⁷³

96. The Council of Europe: European Committee of Social Rights (CoE-ECSR) concluded that the United Kingdom did not comply with the European Social Charter for reasons including the inadequate safeguards to prevent workers from working more than twelve hours a day.¹⁷⁴

7. Right to social security and to an adequate standard of living

97. CCW referred to recommendation 16¹⁷⁵ and stated that the commitment to half child poverty by 2010 was not achieved.¹⁷⁶ CCW called for sufficient resources to tackle child poverty.¹⁷⁷

98. JS 8 stated that the “Child Poverty Strategy” lacked clear recognition of the financial pressures facing families and the impact this was having on children.¹⁷⁸

99. JS 8 stated that in Wales, the passage of the “Children and Families Measure” made statutory provision to take forward its commitment to eradicate child poverty.¹⁷⁹ CCW stated that many of the levers which impact on child poverty were not within the competency of the National Assembly for Wales.¹⁸⁰

100. Engender stated that the Child Poverty Strategy for Scotland¹⁸¹ has failed to materialise into concrete plans for lifting children out of poverty through directly addressing the poverty of their mothers.¹⁸²

8. Right to health

101. Joint Submission 6 (JS 6) stated that in Northern Ireland the legislation on abortion hindered women from realising the highest attainable standard of physical and mental health.¹⁸³

102. JS 10 stated that the specialist child and adolescent services for those with mental health problems in Scotland was inadequate.¹⁸⁴

103. SCFS expressed concern over the use of drug chemical ‘coshes’ for children with conditions such as Attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) and for adults in residential care.¹⁸⁵

104. AKC stated that neuroleptic drugs were not licensed for use in “dementia care” but have become part of routine treatment in care homes, despite the increased risk of death.¹⁸⁶

105. Age UK (AU) stated that elderly people do not always receive appropriate food and drink or get the needed assistance with eating in hospitals and care homes.¹⁸⁷

106. STA stated that intersex people cannot be confident that their rights will be adequately respected by medical professionals, as there were no rights-based intersex healthcare protocols.¹⁸⁸

9. Right to education

107. SC stated that socio-economic background affected early learning. Children who lived in poverty performed lower than those who did not.¹⁸⁹

108. JS 10 stated that in Scotland there was lack of support to enable children with disabilities to inter alia learn in mainstream education.¹⁹⁰

109. SCFS stated that the Scottish Government must ensure that teachers were fully trained to additionally support children with learning difficulties and autistic spectrum disorders.¹⁹¹

110. SCFS stated that deaf children should have the opportunity to learn and use British Sign language (BSL) at school.¹⁹²

111. JS 13 stated that the “Human Rights in Schools Project” conducted in collaboration with the Ministry of Justice was stopped in 2009 for lack of funds.¹⁹³

112. SexYOUality (SY) stated that teachers have not been adequately trained to respond to homophobic bullying in schools.¹⁹⁴

113. CRAE stated that there was an erosion of civil rights in schools. The Education Act 2011, for instance, empowered staff to look through and delete information from pupils’ phones and laptops.¹⁹⁵

114. CRAE stated that the CRC should be included in the statutory national curriculum.¹⁹⁶

10. Persons with disabilities

115. JS 9 stated that the new Universal Credit system could significantly reduce the support to disabled children and their families.¹⁹⁷

116. SCLD stated that cuts to “care packages” or the Disability Living Allowance (DLA) will constrain the independence and community participation of people with disabilities.¹⁹⁸

117. The SCFS stated that despite achievements made by the Scottish Government, disabled people will have their rights eroded by the United Kingdom Government’s proposed welfare reform programme motivated by budget cuts.¹⁹⁹

118. The Scottish Association for Mental Health (SAMH) stated that in Scotland, women with mental health problems were disproportionately found within the criminal justice system,²⁰⁰ and that people with mental health problems were subjected to marginalisation and discrimination.²⁰¹

119. JS 13 recommend that the United Kingdom Government prioritise and address the lack of understanding of hate crime by the police, insofar as it targeted disabled people.²⁰²

120. Disability Politics UK (DP) stated that enabling members of Parliament to job share would enable persons with disabilities to be members of Parliament.²⁰³ A proposal in this regard was submitted to the Minister for Disabled People.²⁰⁴

121. The Scottish Consortium for Learning Disability (SCLD) stated inter alia that in Scotland the lack of “Changing Places Toilets”²⁰⁵ in public areas restricted disabled people from participating in their communities and in society.²⁰⁶

122. Mencap stated that the assurances given by the United Kingdom in securing the rights of people with profound and multiple learning disabilities (PMLD) have not translated into visible improvements.²⁰⁷

123. SCFS expressed concern that women were being advised to abort their children upon diagnosis of disability despite the possibility of these children having a good quality of life.²⁰⁸

11. Minorities and indigenous peoples

124. Lead Gate (LG) stated that the Gypsy and Irish Traveller people remained amongst the most disadvantaged communities because inter alia of the lack of legal recognition of their traditional way of life.²⁰⁹ The National Federation of Gypsy Liaison Groups (NFGLG) stated that the “planning law” must recognise traditional nomadic rights.²¹⁰

125. René Cassin (RC) called for adequate culturally appropriate sites for Gypsy and Irish Traveller people and the reinstatement of the duty on local councils to provide such sites.²¹¹

126. JS 8 stated that the Welsh Government published “Travelling to a Better Future - a Framework for Action” to address the inequalities and social exclusion of Gypsy and Travellers.²¹² AdEd Knowledge Company LLP (AKC) recommended a similar policy by England, Scotland and Northern Ireland.²¹³

127. Article 12 in Scotland (Article 12) stated that certain media agencies deliberately criminalised the Gypsy/Roma/Traveller communities.²¹⁴

128. The Irish Traveller Movement in Britain (ITMB) stated that the educational measures introduced by the United Kingdom Government will negatively impact Gypsy and Traveller pupils.²¹⁵

12. Migrants, refugees and asylum-seekers

129. JS 1 stated that since the Review, there has been a significant increase in immigration detention of adults.²¹⁶

130. The Gatwick Detainees Welfare Group (GDWF) stated that the system of immigration detention was fundamentally flawed, with United Kingdom Border Agency (UKBA) making poor and unlawful decisions.²¹⁷ JS 3 stated that these decisions were based on crude and formulaic ‘credibility’ tests.²¹⁸ Christian Solidarity Worldwide (CSW) stated that applicants had the burden of demonstrating a well-founded fear of persecution and of proving their credibility.²¹⁹

131. The Scottish Transgender Alliance (STA) stated that the asylum process did not uphold the rights of LGBT asylum seekers.²²⁰ National Coalition of Anti-Deportation Campaigns (NCADC) stated that the reasons for refusal of asylum claims in cases of LGBT individuals reflected homophobia and a culture of disbelief.²²¹

132. OCC referred to recommendation 25 and stated that although Yarl's Wood immigration removal centre for children has been closed, children were still detained while awaiting deportation or removal.²²²

133. JS 1 stated that vulnerable adults²²³ were routinely detained.²²⁴ The amendment of UKBA's operational policy guidance, in August 2010, has adopted the presumption of detaining vulnerable people, provided their specific vulnerability can be satisfactorily managed.²²⁵

134. CoE-Commissioner noted the absence of a precise legal framework regarding the Detained Fast Track asylum process (DFT) and recommended legislation in compliance with ECHR.²²⁶

135. Detention Action (DA) stated that the DFT was intended for "straight forward" asylum claims.²²⁷ FT stated that there were multiple problems with the DFT, including in the selection of appropriate cases.²²⁸ Yarl's Wood Befrienders (YWB) stated that the DFT was inappropriately used in the complex cases of women.²²⁹

136. JS 10 stated that although UKBA's new guidance for caseworkers²³⁰ contained inter alia references to the principles of the CRC, they were yet to be realised in practice.²³¹

137. JS 3 stated that drastic cuts to legal aid meant that asylum-seekers faced Home Office officials, lawyers and tribunal judges without representation or advice.²³²

138. Sahir House (SH) stated that destitution was used by the United Kingdom as a means of forcibly removing and returning asylum seekers to their country of origin.²³³ Stillhumanstillhere (SHSH) called for measures which included the granting of asylum seekers permission to work.²³⁴

139. The Equal Rights Trust (ERT) stated there was no mechanism in place to identify stateless persons.²³⁵

13. Human rights and counter-terrorism

140. AI referred to recommendation 6²³⁶ and stated that despite review, counter-terrorism legislation and policy failed to comply with human rights.²³⁷

141. JS 12 stated that the amendments to the Terrorism Act 2000 did not go far enough to ensure compliance with human rights standards.²³⁸ As a consequence of the ECtHR judgment in *Gillan and Quinton*²³⁹, stop and search practices without a reasonable suspicion, pursuant to Section 44, was suspended.²⁴⁰ However, Section 47(a) in the Terrorism Act 2000 (Remedial) Order 2011 enabled stop and search activities to continue without a reasonable suspicion, provided specified criteria was satisfied.²⁴¹ Examining Officers in ports and airports were also empowered to stop, question and/or detain people, without reasonable suspicion.²⁴²

142. JS 12 stated that ethnic profiling was a feature of the stop and search practices.²⁴³ IHRC stated that the police targeted people who were perceived to be Muslim.²⁴⁴ CoE-ECRI stated that stop and search practices disproportionately affected Black and minority communities.²⁴⁵

143. AI stated that under the deportations with assurances programme, terrorist suspects may be transferred to states that practiced torture. Undertakings given by those states cannot eliminate the real risks of torture.²⁴⁶ Redress stated that post-deportation monitoring was an inadequate safeguard.²⁴⁷

144. AI stated that the duration of pre-charge detention for suspects of terrorism-related offences was still lengthy despite its reduction from 28 days to 14 days.²⁴⁸

145. CoE-CPT stated that persons detained under terrorism legislation should be physically brought before a magistrate when an extension of their detention was being requested; instead of the hearing being conducted via video-link.²⁴⁹

14. Situation in or in relation to specific regions or territories

146. CoE-CPT made comments and recommendations on issues which included arrest and treatment of detainees and prisoners in Bailiwick of Guernsey and Bailiwick of Jersey.²⁵⁰

¹⁰ The declaration attached to art. 1 of the OP-CRC on Involvement of Children in Armed Conflict reads:

“The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland will take all feasible measures to ensure that members of its armed forces who have not attained the age of 18 years do not take a direct part in hostilities.

The United Kingdom understands that article 1 of the Optional Protocol would not exclude the deployment of members of its armed forces under the age of 18 to take a direct part in hostilities where:

- a) there is a genuine military need to deploy their unit or ship to an area in which hostilities are taking place; and
- b) by reason of the nature and urgency of the situation:-
 - i) it is not practicable to withdraw such persons before deployment; or
 - ii) to do so would undermine the operational effectiveness of their ship or unit, and thereby put at risk the successful completion of the military mission and/or the safety of other personnel.” (See NIHRC, p. 1, para. 7, fn. 9)

¹¹ The interpretative declaration states, “[T]he United Kingdom wishes to state its understanding of certain articles in the Convention. It interprets article 4 as requiring a party to the Convention to adopt further legislative measures in the fields covered by sub-paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of that article only in so far as it may consider with due regard to the principles embodied in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the rights expressly set forth in article 5 of the Convention (in particular the right to freedom of opinion and expression and the right to freedom of peaceful assembly and association) that some legislative addition to or variation of existing law and practice in

- those fields is necessary for the attainment of the end specified in the earlier part of article 4” (See NIHRC, p. 2, para.117, fn. 13).
