Item 6:
Consideration of UPR reports

SYRIAN ARAB REPUBLIC

Madam President,

During the review of Syria, the authorities accepted recommendations to guarantee the rights to freedom of expression, opinion and assembly,¹ to end conflict and violence and find a peaceful political solution to the situation in the country,² and to investigate alleged cases of violence and deaths, bringing those responsible to justice.³ These commitments appear cynical and insincere, given the situation that prevailed in Syria in October 2011 and that which prevails today.

Amnesty International has repeatedly maintained that some of the human rights violations being committed by the Syrian authorities in their crackdown on pro-reform protests amount to crimes against humanity. The findings of the UN Commission of Inquiry, released on 22 February, coincide with our own and further show that violations have been carried out with the apparent knowledge and consent of commanding officers and senior members of the Syrian government.⁴

Amnesty International has received the names of more than 6,700 people who have been killed or died in connection with the protests since mid-March 2011. We are certain that many have been shot by security forces. Thousands have been arrested, and many have reportedly been held incommunicado and subjected to torture and other ill-treatment. Over 280 people are reported to have died in custody under highly suspicious circumstances. These and other human rights violations are being committed with absolute impunity. More recently the Syrian security forces have used tanks, helicopters, mortars, rockets and artillery fire to attack civilian areas.

Madam President,

² A/HRC/19/11, recommendations 100.13 (Cuba), 100.16 (Ecuador), 100.21 (Vietnam), 100.25 (Sudan),

³ A/HRC/19/11, recommendation 100.39 (Russia),

⁴ A/HRC/19/69

Amnesty International urges the Council to apply paragraph 37 of the annex to Council Resolution 5/1 to keep Syria under review in the UPR due to the extraordinary circumstances that prevail in the country.⁵ To treat the adoption of the UPR outcome for Syria as business as usual will make a mockery of the UPR. We also urge the Council to schedule a special UPR examination of Syria to follow-up on the review carried out in October 2011.

Thank you, Madam President.
