

International Network for Diplomacy Indigenous Governance Engaging in Nonviolence Organizing for Understanding & Self-Determination (INDIGENOUS) is a monumental movement aspiring to change the centuries of making indigenous peoples invisible through colonization and to create a climate of inclusion in the family of nations in the 21st century. INDIGENOUS mobilizes for the realization of human rights of indigenous peoples in the seven recognized indigenous regions in the world through community driven campaigns of direct-action and diplomacy.

INDIGENOUS is committed to nonviolence with eternal vigilance for a planet of peace. INDIGENOUS embraces the responsibility of kindred stewardship for our earth nurtured for centuries in indigenous nations cosmologies. INDIGENOUS understands the interdependence of humanity and ecology to live in harmony. INDIGENOUS struggles for the full recognition of the right of self-determination inherent in traditional governance models existing since time immemorial. INDIGENOUS continues the coordinated campaigns for realization of individual and collective human right of indigenous peoples in every state through national, regional and international initiatives.

INDIGENOUS reflects diversity, dignity and diplomacy providing positive models of mobilization for the full recognition of indigenous rights. INDIGENOUS documents genuine histories of indigenous peoples shared through traditional storytelling and gross violations of indigenous peoples through human rights methodologies. INDIGENOUS determines the best strategies to secure self-determination in all its manifestations for indigenous nations through concerted campaigns with ally advocates. INDIGENOUS directs the accurate information into human rights regional mechanisms and United Nations charter and treaty bodies including specialized agencies, programs and funds to hold states accountable to state obligations under public international law.

INDIGENOUS guarantees the recognition of the inherent dignity in all peoples on the planet enshrined in the international law instruments from the Universal Declaration of Human Rights to the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.

We believe indigenous rights abuses anywhere impacts all indigenous peoples. The common history of deep connection with nature and the similar situation forced upon indigenous peoples in their homelands creates a shared sense of cultural survival that is the impetus for our international movement. We seek solutions rooted in the indigenous values reflected in the voices of our elders and believe our vision for the future will guarantee human rights, freedom and justice for everyone on planet earth.

Regarding the human rights of indigenous peoples, the main focus of the submission is to concentrate on the rights of indigenous peoples of Rapa Nui.

The main concern is the right of self-determination. The people of Rapa Nui are pushing for measures to ensure a process to realize the right of self-determination.

The main concern we have is for the following questions to be answered regarding the human rights of indigenous peoples:

1. What legal and/or policy reforms have undertaken to implement UNDRIP at the national level?
2. To what extent has your government established a clear legal framework through which indigenous people can claim their rights over their traditional lands and resources? Has your government has started a process of land demarcation and recognition which clearly provides legal rights to indigenous communities over their ancestral lands?
3. Is indigenous peoples' rights to free, prior and informed consent legally guaranteed at the national level?

4. Is there disaggregated data on indigenous peoples? Please share and if none please work in partnership with indigenous peoples to assure it is done properly
5. What are the plans for the implementation of the provisions of the declaration in a national law (if there is not already such a law).

6. Another issue is what legislation they have, or will put in place, legislation to ensure that multinational companies have policies in place, consistent with the UN DRIP standards, which seek to guarantee that their activities and investments do not contribute to discrimination and violation of Indigenous Peoples rights
