Prevention of torture (CPT)

The 'European Committee for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment' organises country visits in order to visit places of detention to assess how persons deprived of their liberty are treated. After each visit, the CPT sends a detailed report to the State concerned. This report includes the CPT's findings, and its recommendations, comments and requests for information.

Executive summary of the report on the September 2014 ad hoc visit.

Council of Europe Commissioner for Human Rights

The Commissioner for Human Rights is an independent and impartial non-judicial institution established by Council of Europe to promote awareness of and respect for human rights in the 47 Council of Europe member States.

Since February 2014, The Commissioner has carried out six visits to Ukraine and published a number of reports and other documents highlighting the major human rights issues linked to the violent events which began to escalate towards the end of 2013 and the ensuing hostilities which continue to take place in the east of the country. He first warned about the excessive use of force against demonstrators and journalists covering protests in a statement issued on 2 December 2013, Commissioner concerned about the situation in Ukraine. Those concerns were echoed in a further statement issued on 17 January 2014 following the adoption by the Ukrainian Parliament of legislative amendments impinging upon certain fundamental rights, notably freedom of expression, association, and assembly.

The Commissioner visited Ukraine (Kyiv, Dnipropetrovsk and Zaporizhzhya) from 4 to 10 February 2014 on the backdrop of a deteriorating situation, focusing on policing of assemblies and the use of force in that context, as well as allegations of abductions, ill-treatment and violations of due process. After the visit the Commissioner published a report.

From 16 to 19 June 2014 the Commissioner returned to Ukraine (Kyiv and Odesa), and called upon the Ukrainian authorities to pursue reforms in the areas of law enforcement, the public prosecutor's office and the judicial system, emphasising the imperative to ensure effective investigations into human rights violations occurring in the context of the violent events in Kyiv, Odesa and other cities during the preceding months (statement). During that visit, the Commissioner also met with a number of displaced persons from Crimea and the Donetsk and Luhansk regions, and raised the urgent need for a coordinated humanitarian response at the central level, in addition to the support already extended by NGOs, volunteers, local and regional authorities, and international bodies through a letter sent to the Prime Minister of Ukraine, Mr Arseniy Yatsenyuk on 27 June 2014.

On 27 October 2014 the Commissioner released a report on his mission to Kyiv, Moscow and Simferopol carried out from 7 to 12 September 2014, the first in situ assessment by an international institution of the human rights situation in Crimea since March 2014. The issues examined included accountability for serious human rights violations, the situation of minorities, the media situation, the status of "Self-defence" forces, the situation of human rights defenders and human rights structures, citizenship-related issues, and access of international humanitarian and human rights organisations to the territory.

Towards the end of 2014 the Commissioner visited Ukraine again (from 30 November to 5 December). Apart from Kyiv, the visit covered Dnipropetrovsk, Dniprozherzhinsk, and parts of the government-controlled territories in Donetsk region (Kurakhove and Krasnoarmiysk), situated in close proximity to the line of fighting. Following the visit, he stressed in an article in openDemocracy entitled “Eastern Ukraine: the humanity behind the headlines” that the armed conflict had a devastating impact upon the human rights as well as the basic needs of the population.

The Commissioner also carried out two visits to Ukraine which covered in part non-government controlled areas in the east of the country. The first of those was from 29 June to 3 July 2015 (Kyiv, Dnipropetrovsk, Kramatorsk and the non-government controlled city of Donetsk), when the Commissioner primarily focused on the humanitarian situation, IDPs, human rights of children, freedom of movement, and access of humanitarian organisations, and was followed up by a report. The second was from 21 to 25 March 2016 (Kyiv, Dnipropetrovsk and Donetsk). In Donetsk, the Commissioner went to a psycho-neurological hospital and a home for older persons. As part of that visit, focused on serious human rights violations, the Commissioner and members of his team interviewed a number of persons who had previously been detained or held captive by the opposing sides in the conflict, and heard their accounts of ill-treatment which were remarkably similar. He concluded that the conflict in the east of Ukraine remained the cause of enormous human suffering and loss of life, and emphasised: “It is high time to put an end to it and ensure the effective prosecution and sanctioning of those responsible for human rights violations” (see the report on the March 2016 visit).

Expressing his concerns about a legislative proposal aimed at annulling the appointment of the Ombudsperson of Ukraine, Ms Valeriya Lutkovska, the Commissioner addressed a letter to Mr Volodymyr Groysman, Chairperson of the Parliament, highlighting the need to secure the independence and effectiveness of the Ombudsperson institution, as well as the responsibility of Parliament in this regard.

In addition, the Commissioner reacted to certain developments in Crimea in 2015 and 2016, e.g. by calling for unhindered broadcasting of the Crimean Tatar channel ATR TV, and by urging a reversal of the ban on the Mejlis.

Fight against racism and intolerance (ECRI)

The European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI) is a human rights body of the Council of Europe, composed of independent experts, which monitors problems of racism, xenophobia, antisemitism, intolerance and discrimination on grounds such as “race”, national/ethnic origin, colour, citizenship, religion and language. It prepares reports and issues recommendations to member States, in which its findings, along with recommendations are published. These reports are drawn up after a contact visit to the country in question and a confidential dialogue with the national authorities. The country monitoring takes place in five-year cycles. As part of the fourth round of ECRI’s monitoring work, a new process of interim follow-up has been introduced with respect to a small number of specific recommendations made in each of ECRI’s country reports.

ECRI adopted its Conclusions on the Implementation of the Recommendations in Respect of Ukraine Subject to Interim Follow-Up on 19 March 2015:

Protection of minorities

Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities

The monitoring procedure for this convention requires each state party to submit a report within one year following the entry into force of the Framework Convention and additional reports every five subsequent years. State reports are examined by the Advisory Committee, a body composed of 18 independent experts responsible for adopting country-specific opinions. These opinions, on which States Parties have an opportunity to comment, are meant to advise the Committee of Ministers in the preparation of its resolutions, containing conclusions and recommendations to the State concerned.

The 3rd cycle ACFC Opinion was adopted in 2012:

The corresponding Resolution CM/ResCMN(2013)8 on the implementation of the Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities by Ukraine was adopted by the Committee of Ministers on 18 December 2013:

In 2014 the ACFC adopted an "Ad hoc Report on the situation of national minorities in Ukraine" (adopted on 1 April 2014):

European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages

The Charter's monitoring procedure is based on state reports, as each State Party is required to present its first report within the year following the entry into force of the Charter with respect to the Party concerned. The subsequent reports are presented at three-yearly intervals. A committee of independent experts examines the state's periodical report and addresses an evaluation report to the Committee of Ministers, including proposals

Ukraine submitted its 2nd periodical report on 6 January 2012. The Committee of Experts adopted their evaluation report on Ukraine on 15 November 2012 and the corresponding Committee of Ministers' recommendations were adopted on 15 January 2014.

The 3rd periodical report was submitted on 12 January 2016; the evaluation report is expected to be adopted by the Committee of Experts in March 2017 and the recommendations adopted by the Committee of Ministers in September 2017.

Action against trafficking in human beings (GRETA)

The Council of Europe Convention on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings was adopted by the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on 3 May 2005, following a series of other initiatives by the Council of Europe in the field of combating trafficking in human beings. The Convention entered into force on 1 February 2008, following its 10th ratification. While building on existing international instruments, the Convention goes beyond the minimum standards agreed upon in them and strengthens the protection afforded to victims.

The Convention has a comprehensive scope of application, encompassing all forms of trafficking (whether national or transnational, linked or not linked to organised crime) and taking in all persons who are victims of trafficking (women, men or children). The forms of exploitation covered by the Convention are, at a minimum, sexual exploitation, forced labour or services, slavery or practices similar to slavery, servitude and the removal of organs.

The main added value of the Convention is its human rights perspective and focus on victim protection. Its Preamble defines trafficking in human beings as a violation of human rights and an offence to the dignity and integrity of the human being. The Convention provides for a series of rights for victims of trafficking, in particular the right to be identified as a victim, to be protected and assisted, to be given a recovery and reflection period of at least 30 days, to be granted a renewable residence permit, and to receive compensation for the damages suffered.

Another important added value of the Convention is the monitoring system set up to supervise the implementation of the obligations contained in it, which consists of two pillars: the Group of Experts on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings (GRETA) and the Committee of the Parties.

The Convention is not restricted to Council of Europe member states; non-members states and the European Union also have the possibility of becoming Party to the Convention.

Preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence

The Council of Europe Convention on preventing and Combating violence against women and domestic violence (Istanbul Convention, CETS No. 210) provides for two types of monitoring procedures: a country-by-country evaluation procedure and a special inquiry procedure in exceptional cases where action is required to prevent a serious, massive or persistent pattern of any acts of violence covered by the Convention. GREVIO, the Group of Experts on Action against violence against women and domestic violence, is the independent body responsible for monitoring the implementation of CETS No. 210. GREVIO launched its first evaluation procedure in spring 2016, after adopting a questionnaire on legislative and other measures giving effect to the Istanbul Convention.

Ukraine signed the Istanbul Convention on 7 November 2011. A comprehensive project in support of Ukraine's efforts to ratify the Istanbul Convention was funded by the Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (SIDA) and implemented by the Council of Europe. The bill of ratification presented to the Ukrainian national parliament was, however, ultimately rejected in November 2016. Ukraine is invited to address the reasons for its rejection and to continue its efforts towards ratification in order to become a state party to the Istanbul Convention.

Fight against corruption (GRECO)

The 'Group of States against Corruption' (GRECO) monitors all its members through a "horizontal" evaluation procedure within thematic evaluation rounds. The evaluation reports contain recommendations aimed at furthering the necessary legislative, institutional and practical reforms. Subsequently, the implementation of those recommendations is examined in the framework of a "compliance procedure", assessing whether they have been implemented satisfactorily, partly or have not been implemented 18 months after the adoption of the evaluation report.

Fourth Evaluation Round: "Corruption prevention in respect of members of parliament, judges and prosecutors".

GRECO's Fourth Round Evaluation visit to Ukraine took place in December 2016. The Report is expected to be discussed, with a view to its adoption, at GRECO's 76th plenary meeting on 19-23 June 2016.

Following a decision taken by the Committee of Ministers in 2006, the provisions of the Charter have been divided into four thematic groups. States present a report on the provisions relating to one of the four thematic groups on an annual basis. Consequently each provision of the Charter is reported on once every four years.
